sons go with him, and he finally consented.

And when Absalom had prepared for the feast and every servant was in his place he spoke secretly with those whom he could trust, saying:

"Mark ye now when Amnon's heart is merry with wine, and when I say unto you, smite Amnon; then kill him, fear not; have not I commanded you? Be courageous, and be valiant."

And the servants of Absalom did commanded, and Absalom fled and went to Talmai, king of Geshur, his grandfather, who commended him for the success of his wicked plot and assured him of his support when he should strive for the kingdom of Israel.

on the higher grade.

Many poople can hardly believe there is a tariff tax on anything amounting to 100 per cent. of its value—that is, a tax equal to its cost—but here we have the extraordinary tax of over 180 per cent. So if the blankets cost in Europe five dollars, they are increased in cost—by the tariff tax collected over nine dosiars, making such blankets cost here over $14$, besides the freight, insurance and profits of the importer; and this enormous tax the American consumer has to pay to protect the woolen trust. Is not such a tariff tax robbery, under the guise of law? Yet our Republican friends defend it and declared in their national platform of 1904 that: "Protection which guards and develops our industries is a cardinal policy of the Republican party." Even if the Republican party at its next national convention promises to revise the tariff "after election," they must still continue to protect the infant industries, now grown to gigantic trusts, or go back on their declaration of 1904. It is handly likely the Republican leaders will declare they have been mistaken in their policy of protectionism, as the stand-pat statesmen outnumber those who feel that the same old farce of pretending to revise the tariff for "commercial reciprocity whenever reciprocal arrangements can be effected consistent with the principles of protection while so must be depended upon to reduce the tariff in "commercial reciprocity whenever reciprocal arrangements can be defected consistent with the principles of protection will be continued. How little the Republican party can be depended upon to reduce the tariff in protection and consume the great mas of consumers—the farmers and workingmen and those with small incomes, is because they are by far the most numerous and consume the great mas firty of articles produced. Therefore the trust sare protected by higher tariff duties on such chaper grade of goods than on the more expensive year by the people in consequence of the increased prices for domestic products, and the en

Centralization and Home-Stule.

There is one man who has been mentioned as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president that has given a very good exhansion of the Democratic position on the reserved rights of the states and the people and the necessity for preserving the right for home rule. That Democrat is Judge Judson Hamon of Oho, who was attorney general under President Cleveland. In his address delivered before the Kentucky State Far astociation for two federal officers, whose personality as well as position, give weight to their words." These were, in effect, that it is right and duty of the federal government for the men in charge of it, the state governments all to act, or to act effectively, concerning matters which are assumed to require action by some government. In one of its unanimous decisions which we alway, gratefully receive, the supreme court decided that "this is a government of the men in charge of the power mount and the power of the power of the presence of the court of the men in charge of it, the state governments all to act, or to act effectively, concerning matters which are assumed to require action by some government. In one of its unanimous decisions which we alway, gratefully receive, the supreme court decided that "this is a government of enumerator powers," as clearly appears from the proper of the power thely or to the people." Judge Harmon closed his address with the expianation of the Democratic doctring of home rule by saying: "The people of the various states differ somewhat in their needs, ideas and methods, but this only dissloses the individuality which makes them true common-weaths—the sovereign Many which, with gems from their own diadems, crowned the sovereign Many which, with gems from their own diadems, crowned the sovereign Many which, with gems from their own diadems, crowned the sovereign Many which, with gems from their own fladems, crowned the sovereign Many which, with gems from their own fladems, crowned the sovereign Many which, with gems from their own fladems, to be eliminated or corrected. A vegetable substitute for milk, used largely in China, is made therefrom the seeds of the sola hispida, or oliy Chinese bean (soy-bean), we are told by Francis Marre in La Nature (Paris, June 8). He says:

"To obtain it the seeds are first boiled and then pressed, making a sort of puree which, when dissolved in water, makes a very nourishing vegetable milk. Germany's Mask Industry.

Germany's Mask Industry.

Germany's Mask Industry.
Consul T. H. Nortow of Chemnita writes regarding Germany's mask industry: "There is an extensive demand for masks throughout Germany for the carnival season and other merrymaking occasions. In central Germany there are several large establishments devoted exclusively to manufacturing this article. They not only meet the needs or Germany's trade but also supply a very large demand from foreign countries. The materials used in mask making are chiefly pasteboard and gauze, with small amounts of silk and wire. Each establishment employs its own artists, and there is a constant effort to place novelties on the market. It is largely due to the great variety of these novel designs that a promising trade with the United States has grown up during recent years, which is reported to be steadily increasing.

Some persons think coffee a real friend, hut watch it carefully awhile and observe that it is one of the meanest of all enemies for it stabs one while professing friendship.

Coffee contains a polsonous drug—canfoine—which injures the delicats nervous system and frequently sets up disease in one or more organs of the body, if its use is persisted in.

"I had heart palpitation and nervousness for four years and the doctor told me the trouble was-caused by coffee. He advised me to leave it off, but I thought I could not," writes a Wis. lady.

"On the advice of a friend I tried Postum-Food Coffee and it so satisfied me that I did not care for coffee after a few days' trial of Postum.

"As weeks went by and I continued to use Postum my weight increased from 85 to 118 pounds, and the heart trouble left me. I have used it a year now, and am stronger than I ever was. I can hustle up stairs without any heart palpitation, and I am cured of nervousness.

"My children are very fond of Postum and it agrees with them. My sister liked it when she drank it at my house, but not when she made it at her own home. Now she has learned to make it right, boil it according to directions, and has become very fond of it. You may use my name if you wish, as I am not ashamed of praising my best friend—Postum."

Farming Is Paying Better.

Some one seks the following live questions: How much gold can a farmer buy with his corn, as compared with a few years agc? Answer: twice as much.

How much gold is his oats? About two dollars to one formerly; and so on down the list of productions, except wheat, and that is on place to a gold of the second of the season is that farming is paying better than in former years. There is good demand for everything the farm produces, and at prices that leave a profit above cost of production. It was not always ao, but the tide is turning towards agriculture. what the Horse Outlived.

Since the days when steam power was utilized for locomotion, the doom of the horse has been predicted, says a writer in the "Horse-shoers' Journal." With every subsequent invention of appliances for the help of locomotion this same talk has been heard. When the first passenger train ran on rails, stage drivers and teamsters shook their heads and sighed for the fate which seemed in store for the horse. The opposite proved true, and the demand for the services of the horse was increased instead of diminished. The bicycle was going to do away with the horse and now comes the automobile, and again its fate is sealed. The motor comes in closer competition with the horse than did the locomotive, but still the horse will stay. It is not mikely that naphtha, gasoline or electricity will relieve the horse to man with a bond of sympathy too strong for any whiz-was on the other have endeared the horse to man with a bond of sympathy too strong for any whiz-was on the other have endeared the horse to man with a bond of sympathy too strong for any whiz-was on to sever. As long as there is pleasure in the exercise of one intelligence over another, so long as beauty, strength and animation challenge admiration, so long will the horse remain in the place which he is destined to fill, and will remain as the companion of man. There is something virevisitible about the companionship of a horse. He mever gives advice unasked, not does he "bellow forth his sent complaining," when the road happens to be a little rough, he simply remains with you, faithful, silent, uncomplaining, ready to ride at your bidding; even to death if need be.

Poultry Pickings.

Birds cannot tell their feelings, ence we must judge and prescribe om symptoms alone.

hence we must judge and prescribe from symptoms alone. The causes of malignant colds are filth, dampnese, drafts, neglect and improper tood.

Ducks seldom become broody after laying the first litter.

Eggs from yearling ducks hatch well, but geese must be about three years old to show strong fertility.

A cockerel can be distinguished from a pullet at three months of age, as he will be crowing by that time.

from a pullet at three months of age, as he will be crowing by that time.

Do not make the hen's nest too deep so that the hen will have to jump down on the eggs in getting on the nest.

The pullets hatched in March will make good layers for the late fall, and they can be handled so they will lay all winter.

When a fowl sneezes, waters slightly at eyes and nostrils and dumps it has a common cold, not regarded as a germ disease.

Geese cannot be profitably hatched and reared artificially, while incubators and brooders have revolutionized the duck business.

A suspicious looking individual having been seen about town late have been county. Deposit Bank that night. Only two or three persons about town knew that he was in the bank. About 11 o'clock he opened the stove door to replenish the coal when some one on the street saw the light, and hasted to the Boone House and told what they had seen. No time was lost in the organization of an armed squart that soon had the bank surrounded, confident that the bank surrounded that the bank is the bank. The crowd breathed easier when the officer was heard from, and it disbanded at once. The guard was not aware of the excitement he had caused until some time after he went off of duty Monday morning.

Public Manners.

There are few persons who can work their way through a crowd, or can even walk on the busy shopping streets of large American towns and cities, without occasionally losing their temper, or, at any rate, feeling considerable irritation. The reason is ot so much the crowd itself and the consequent allowness of progress, although that may be annoying; it is the manners of the crowd, the constantly repeated incidents of rudeness and seifshness. You are hurrying along, intent on your business, but nevertheless carefully keeping on your own aide of the walk, when the man Immediately in front of you cuts diagonally acrows, without stopping to see how near you are to his heels. You stumble, and he turns his head long enough to your. ## THE RECORDER TRIPLE MURDER MAY BE SOLVED

MATTRESS SOAKED WITH BLOOD AND OTHER SIGNS OF GHASTLY CRIME

DISCOVERED IN A RAILWAY HORSE CAR

is Thought the Police Will Be Able To Run To Earth a Gang of Desperate Thieves and Mur-derers.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 11.—Through the socidental discovery of evidence in a howse car as Buffatio, N. Y., the police of South Bend believe the mystery surrounding the death of three men within a week diong the Lake Shore railroad in Northern Indiana will be solved, and that they will be able to run to earth a gang of despende murderers. The viotums are:

A. W. Murphey, aged 40 years, Colorado Springs, Colo, killed at South Bend.

Raiph Kyle 20 years, Edgerton, O.,

Bend.

Ralph Kyle 20 years, Edgerton, O., killed near Goshen, Ind.

Henry Rank, aget 69 years, Berrien oournty, Mchigan killed at La Porte, Ind.

Henry Rank, aged 60 years, Berrien county, Michigan killed at La Forte lend.

A mistake in switching a horse carcontaining four horses into Buffalo instead of sending it on to New York city, its destination, and the subsequent discovery that the horses were without an attendant, led to an investigation which neveloped the grewsome facts.

When the car was forced open the trainmen found the floor covered with blood, the mattress which had been used by the occupant of the car for a bed soaked with blood, and a hammer which we glaineds with blood and on which was a burner of the tar for a bed soaked with blood, and a hammer which we glaineds with brood and on which was a burner of the tare for a bed soaked with blood, and a learned that up to the time the car reached South Bend, A. W. Murphey was in obarge of it. He then learned from the local police of the finding of Murphey's hody at the Robertson street crossing—of the Lake Shore.

The mystery of Kyle's death was floought slowed last Monday, when the police put Pearl Maines, of Chicago, through a sweating process. The latter acknowledged being with Kyle, when he net his death, and stated that he fell from the car when he attempted to catch his hat, which the wind had blown from his head. This explanation however, is doubted.

The third killing occurred at Laport tast Tuesday, when the body of Henry Rank, of Berrien county Michigan, was found. At the time the was supposed that he had been struck by a Lake Shore train, and the corner's verdict was to that effect.

CHILDREN AND SERVANTS

Rescued From Burning Residence By Chief of Armour Concern.

Chicago, Hl., Nov. 11.—Arthur Meeker, who in every day life as general manager for Armour & Co., has been in command of many commercial hatties, was called upon to battle with a fire in his home, 1815 Prairie avenue.
He became the leader in saving his four children and the house servants from the fames. He himself rescued three of the children and a governess saved the fourth.

The fire, which caused damage estimated at $25,000, was discovered by Miss Udell at 2 o'clock. The nurse on the third floor had heer awakered hy
the coughing of two of the children, Arthur, Ir., and Mary, who were asleep in the room. The smole from the blaze had irritated their throats. Their coughing probably saved the lives of the whole family. Mr. Meeker and the governess illied thom from ther costs and bore them from the room, the father carrying Arthur, Ir., and the governess the little girl. Katherine and Grace were sleeping in a room on the second floor, and the father hore

Duluth, Minn., "ex. 9.—Fire which originated in elevator "A" of the Great Northern railroad in Superior, containing 600,000 bushels of grain, spread quickly, and before it was got under control destroyed property valued at $4,000,000.

The elevator was owned by the Great "Deer. Hroad but was leased to the A. D. Thomson Grain company of Duluth. The sparks soon ignited the Grand Republic mill on Tower Bay slip, the great Lakes Dredge & Rock company dock and the Duluth Superior Storage company which contained the finishing plant of the Webster Chair company.

The fire started at the southwest corner of the elevator "A" dock and before it was noticed had communicated to the elevator. An alarm was turned in and four fire tugs responded, but owing to the intense heat they were driven out of the slip and devoted all their energies to saving the addining property. The steamers W. A. Parent and W. A. Rogers were in the elevator "A" slip loading wheat and the latter was to take out 300,000 hushels of wheat Saturday. Heroism of Mexican Engineer in Explosion at Nacozari, Ariz.

Douglás, Ariz. — The death list as a result of the Nacozarl explosion Thursday is now placed at 14 or 15, all Mexicans, beside John Chisholm, aged 13, who was riding on the train when the explosion occurred.

A train on the narrow gauge railroad to the Pilares mine in some way caught fire. In the train were two open cars heavily loaded with explosives, and the fact that the concentrator and a good part of the town of Nacozarl were saved from ruin was due to the hravery of the Mexican engineer of the train, Jesus García. Realizing that to cut out the hurning cars and excape on the engine would expose the town to probable destruction, he called to the rest of the crew to jump and started to run the train away from the town. He had ken it ahout a half mile when the explosion occurred and he was blown to atoms. It is reported that another member of the crew stayed with him and was killed. The heavy death list is due to the fact that the explosion occurred unterial was passing a section house in which were a number of section men.

SERMONETTE.

Destruction is from within.

Every man builds the seatoid ing on which is executed the monster of his misdeeds.

Abasiom is but one example of the myriads which the world's history affords of the fact that an evil life contains the seeds of its own undoing. Pride which built up such a splendid conspirade, proved the medium through which came detait and finart destruction.

A man, after all, is only as strong as his weakest point, and notwithstanding Abasiom's raregulus and clever scheming, he Sall an easy victim to that desire for magnet "example and danger, did not appeal to him, but the leading of a magnificent army in a spectacular campaign, won his approval and led him to defeat and death.

That is about all there is to be said concerning Abasiom. As we see him in that last ignominous hour how the mask is torn from his beautiful face and form, and the hideous character which he had grown within stands revealed! A dishonorable, diabobelink, Godless son going down in disgrace to a grave duging the woods, while the magnificent mausoleum which he had erected with a statue of himself stands empty, and, in silent mockery, condemns the foliog or man's planning apart from the will and purposes of God.

In this includent is strikingly emphasized the old, familiar adage: "Man proposes and God disposes."

mphasized the old, familiar adage: "Man proposes and God disposes."

David realized this, and as hed from Jerusalem, a brokenhearted father, he lifted his eyes to heaven and said: "If I shall find favor in the eyes of the Lord, he will bring me again, and shew me-both the ark and its habitation. But if he (God) thus say, I have no delight in thee; behold, here am I, let him do to me as seemeth good unto him."

Here was both the spirit of true repentance for the sins which had come into his own life, and whose fruitage was to be found in the present wicked plottings of his son; and whole hearted submission to the sovereign will of God.

And will of God.

And will of God the son and whole hearted submission find their inspiration and strength in the faith which laid hold upon God in the act which is a submission find their inspiration and strength in the faith which laid hold upon God in him as only the helpless soul can cling which is reduced to the last extremity and sees that only God and silver.

THE STORY.

JERUSALEM, which bad but a few hours before wept over the aged king, as be fied with his few followers, now rang with the shouts for the new king. Ever a lover of pomp and ceremony, that was a most spectacular entrance which Absalom made as with his gathered army and the increasing multitudes who were carried away by the enthusiasm of the moment, he made the journey from Hebron and took possession of the royal city and the palace of cedar which David had built.

As he rode through the streets surrounded not by fifty runners and a few charlots, but by a multitude of charlots and a great company of fighting men, he smiled with grim satisfaction. Far beyond the greatest especiations had his plot carried. He had not expected to enter the gates of Jerusa fem without a struggle: He had not dreamed that so easily and quickly were his ambitions and hopes to be realized. But here he was within Jerusalem's gates, and yonder was the splendid phase of cedar. The air ang with the shouts of the multitudes as they creded: "Long live King Absalom."

With an expression of supreme satisfaction and self-assurance was target and self-assurance was attributed.

With an expression of supreme sat-isfaction and self-assurance upon his face Absalom turned to Ahithophel, who was riding with him in the char-iot, and said:

"Where are those who stand with David?"

"Be not over-confident, oh, king, for where David is there will be found those who will lay down their lives for him," rejoined Ahithopbel, almost curtly.

There was no man in all the land so keen and wise as Ahithophel. For long years he had served at the court of King. David, and was acquainted with every detail of the business of the kingdom. Through some slight, fancied or real, at the hands of the king, he had become dissatished, and when the plotting of Abasiom had so carried the audion by storm he had welcomed it as his opportunity of gaining a greater ascendancy over the nation and had quickly joined himself.

The Vision Splendid. The vision splendid is built day by day out of the things next to hand.

to the court of Absslom which he had set up at Hebron, and when tidlings had come that David had fied from Jerusalem he counseled that they rederunstem he comuseled that they return to the royal city and take possession of the palace. This advice Absolom good the palace. This advice Absolom seen, his welcome to Jerusalem was all that the heart of an ambitious man could desire.

And on the day after his return came Hushal, the Archite, saying:

"Whom the Lord, and this people, and all the men of larael choose, his will I be and with him will I abide. Yee, whom should I serve? Should I not serve, and will be men of larael choose, his viril I be, and with him will I abide. Yee, whom should I serve? Should I not serve he had been presence, so will be in thy presence will be in thy presence will be in thy presence with a deserve wi

A few days later as Absaiom, at the head of a vast army, was proudly setting forth from Jerusa'em, word came to him that Ahithophel had bansa'd himself

"The fool," muttered the king under his breath, "could he see the bosts of lared this ady and the certainty of storious victory he would be ashamed that he had counseled other than as did Hushali."

So he tried to dismiss the subject

storious victory he would be sshamed that he had counseled other than as did Hushal."

So he tried to dismiss the subject from his mind, but all through that day and the next, as he led his forces into battle, there kept floating before nis eyes the vision of Ahlthophel, black and hiddeus, with a rope around his neck. He could not shake it off. In desperation he pressed the battle, but distead of the foe he ever aw the dead, blackened corpse floating before his eyes.

The flanks of his army have been turned, the ranks waver—and break, and soon the panic of full rotreat has seized all the hosts of larael. Those about him met away and, almost alone, he turns his mule's head and flees. With a fatal flascination he, watches the awaying branches of the trees in the distance. He thinks of the dead Ahlthophel. It soems almost as though the trees were buckoning him to Ahlthophel's side. On he goes, and as he passes under the boughs of a great oak the bair in which he had found so much pride-and loy caught, hold of the oak and there ho awang between earth and sky unable to free himself. And there Absalom died, and they goat him into a great pit and laida very great heap of stones upon him.

THE POOR PAY MORE TAXES THAN THE RICH.

Duties Levied on Necessities of Are Responsible for This State of Affairs—Important Reason For Reduction.

The tariff not only, protects the trusts but it makes the poor man pay more tariff taxes than the rich man does. Leaving out the fact that the trusts are protected by the tariff, for this everybody knows who has taken the trouble to investigate the matter, it is of still more importance to present the facts that show that the many are taxed for the benefit of the few. As a general proposition no one with deny that taxes should be assessed and pald according to income and the amount of property possessed by the citizen. The person with an income of ... as month or less should certainly pay less taxes than one with $1,000 a month or more, and yet as far as tariff taxes on necessities are concerned the man with the small income pays as much and even more than the man with the small income pays as much and even more than the man with the small income pays as much small even to the same quantity of these taxed accessities.

The yet "iman has to buy as much small representation of the same quantity of these taxed accessities.

The yet "iman has to buy as much small representation of the small representation of the same quantity of these taxed accessities.

The yet "iman has to buy as much saver on his small income than on that of his rich neighbor. As large families are more usual with the poor than with the rich, the tariff is thus still heavier on those less able to pay it. The tariff tax on regard or granulated sugar being one and ninety-five hundredths of a cent a pound, equal to 64.32% on the value of imported sugar in the country where it was produced which in 1906 was 5 cents a pound, and the country where it was produced which in 1906 was 5 cents a pound, each average consumption of sugar perception of the country where it was produced which in the family.

The tax to the poor man earning $60 a month is about one per cent of his wages, while the tax paid by the rich man on an income of $500 a month is about one per cent, and on the very rich the tax-is on infinitesimal that it is difficult to compute the perc Asset Currency.

It is evident there will be a determined effort when congress meets to pass an "asset currency" bill. The American bankers' convention, which has just adjourned, adopted the proposed plan, although there were serious objections offered by some of the members. The object is to allow the members. The object is to allow the mational banks to issue more currency without having to deposit United States bonds to secure the issue. The cry is more money The bankers want a monopoly that can be increased or decreased at their pleasure, and, of course, for their profit. But as the amount of money per capita is constantly increasing by the increased output of gold and the currency isued by newly organized national banks, there would seem to be ample currency to meet all demands of legitimate business.

The Same Old Gang.

The Same Old Gang.

Many of those newspapers which favor the new theory advanced by Mr. Roosevelt as to absolute federal control of corporation affairs by congress and by commissions appointed by the president, are publishing the speech of one Danvin P. Kingsley of the New York Life insurance company, delivered before the convention of insurance Commissioners of the states at Richmond, Va., on September 17th. Kingsley is a son-in-law of that enterprising citizen John A. McCall, the former president of the New York Life, who fashricated approfusely to Governor Culberson of Texas. and ordered George W. Perkins to give up $50,000 of mouey belonging to the policy holders of the New York Life to the Royseveit campaign fund.

ONCE MORE BACKS DOWN.

President Roosevelt's Latest Complete Change of Front.

It has become the habit of all who watch—thods—two—political weather-cocks, President Roosevet and Attornery General Bonaparte, to construe their public utcomaces backward, just as dreams are congrued. In August they were clamering for the conviction and pulsishment of some "malefactors of great weath," they were yearning to behold some "the criminat behind prison bars. The officers of the Chicago and Alton rathresh of the Chicago and Alton rathresh of the control of rebating, and corroborated their testimony by producing the railroad company's hooks in which the numerous criminal transactions whom this testimony was given, and the second of the control of t

The Democratic Problem.

Amongst the many eminent democrates suggested as suitable for the candidate of the party for president. Judge George Gray, of Delaware, is by no means to be overlooked. The democratic leaders of his own state have already taken steps to secure the Delaware delegates for him, and an organization has been perfected to bring his name before the voters of other states. There is no doubt that Judge Gray would make an admirable president, and his great ability and undoubted honesty fills those necees sary democratic requirements. But with favorite, sons springing up in many states, a small state like Delaware is handicapped in urging her candidate and Judge Gray may, therefore, not be the most available candidate upon whom the democrata can unite, and as he is looked upon as a "conservative" he may not be acceptable to some of the Irlends of Mr. Hryan, and thus would be defeated as Judge Parker was. This problem of finding a candidate who can unite all the elements of those calling them selves democratic makes the selection of candidates next year a most serious one. To win, democrats must be united and the practical plan is evidently to agree on a candidate for whom the radicals and the conservatives will be the first cholce of either faction, but to secure honest and efficient democratic administration.

Republicans and Cain.

We cannot believe that a party will.

democratic administration.

Republicans and Gain.

We cannot believe that a party will do, after an election, the very thing it positively refuses to do hefore an election. We believe that every proposition made by party leaders to postpone needful lexisiation until its hold in power has been continued, is maincers, or, to be more plain, that it is merely a lying pretense designed to deceive the public. We, therefore have no confidence in any promise the Republican party may make that they still reduce the grafting tariff "after election". The promise bears the badge of fraud upon its face, and when the people, after election, call upon that jurity to redeem its campaign piedges and relieve the oppressed consumers and tax payers, it will answer, like old Cain: "Am I my brother's keeper?"

Opening Their Eyes.

A Penasylvanian politician, who have never voted the Democratic ticket, has had his eyes opened, and advises the people of that state to change their politics. He says: "The Democracy cannot hope to rival the Republicans in what Parson Brownlow once called devilled hamartness, nor in sanctimous our hypocrisy." He thinks that Democratic success would insure better government.

ROUND ABOUT THE STATE

What Is Going on in Different Sections of Kentucky.

WILLSON VICTORY

May Retire Beckham If He Fails to To Face Charges in Goebel Case is Be Sent to the Senate.

Assured, Saya Fisher,

Be Sent to the Senate.

Louisville, Ky.—The landallde in Kentucky politics, which swept the democratic ticket and present office holders completely off the political map, also forebodes defeat for Gov. J. C. W. Beckham in his fight to succeed United States Senator James B McCreary.

The returns indicate that the democrats will have a small majority, from six to eight, on joint hallot in the next general assembly, and it is on this that Gov. Beckham relies to send him to the senate, but before bis has been accomplished it is evident that the governor will have to reckon with some of the defeated candidates on the state ticket, who lay their downfall to the attitude of the governor, and who openly boat that, on the contrary, when he stery down and out for his successor. Augustus E. Willson, c.—December 2, h.—will.

FALLS PROVE FATAL

To Three Children—Remarkable Series of Accidents.

of Accidents.

Rockport, Ky.—Three fastal accidents and a fourth which may prove fattal, all being due to falls, have created gloom. In this community. Mrs. J. N. Embry, of Cromwell, upon entering the sleeping apartment of her 18-month-old baby, found it lying upon the floor with its neck broken. The child, which was dead when found, a ccidentally fallen from the dew while acleep. Calvin Taylor, 10, felt from the deek of a steamer and was drowned. Apha Dexter fell from a tree while out hunting, and died from his injuries. Martin Rone, a school-boy, fell from a high ladder while playing circus; and was perhaps fatally in Jured.

Democrats Blame the Liquor People.
Owensboro, Ky.—Complete returns in Daviess county give Hager a majority of 52 over Willson for governor.
This is a failing off of nearly 1,000 for the democrats in this county. The democrats in Owensboro are denouncing the liquor interest for the alleged knifing of the state and city ticket. It is believed that the election will be comembered by Owensboro democrats when the next local option election is held in Owensboro and Daviess county three years hence.

Marked Money Found, 'Tia Said.

Elktown, Ky.—Foyd, Liktle, assistiat postmaster here, is under arrest, charged with having rifled lotters containing money. Post office authorities, who arrestofs him, say he had marked money that had been placed in decoy letters. One year ago Lossie C. Liktle, who was assistant postmaster here, was convicted of a similar charge after being similarly trapped; and sectenced to serve 18 months in the tedoral peal tentary at Atlanta.

indicted by the grand jury for enbezstement, and brittery in office. Lawrence Shang and Henry Spatz, slieged accomplices, were also indicted for inhery, grand larceny and obtaining money under false pretenaes and for having exposed for sale diseased meats.

Will-Hold an-Election.

will held an Election.

Burkosville, Ky.—Acting upon a petition filed in the county count of Monroe county asking that an election beheld under the county unit law, Judges Miller has ordered an election for December 7. Liquor is now sold legally in but one precinct in Monroe county, and the indications are that the "drys" will win.

will win.

Yeggmen Invade Florence Bank.
Covington, Ky.—Safoblowers in an automobile visited Florence, Ky., and wrecked the vault of the Florence Deposit Bank. They did not secure anything of value, as the noise aroused the citizens, who opened fire on the robbers, who easily outdistanced a posse in the big touring car.

Begin War on Saloons.

Newport, Ky.—All preparations have been completed by the Protestant ministers for the opening of the crusade against saloons in Campbell county, which will continue for the next two months, with lectures in all the Protestant churches.

Looted of Cunny Sacks.
Potersburg, Ky.—A gang of yegsmen entered the Fariners' Bank here early and looted it to the extent of 200 gunny sacks. They were frightened

RETURN OF TAYLOR

Assured, Saya Fisher.

Paduceh, Ky — Busing his statement on a televism received from W. 8.

Taylor, former governor of Keedaucky, was is now living at Indianagoth, Ind., Prestmanter Frank Fisher, of this city, age the former official will return to this state to face charges of complicity in the assacsination of Wia. Deselv. The telegram follows:

"Thinks for your congratistory telegram, I constantiate you and the neople of Kentucky on the noble work you did on the 5th. It was a grand battle, nobly fought and nobly wea, off course, it means much to me. Visit dication is what I desire above all else, and vindication I with lave, the believe, somewhere, some time." Postmator Fisher's telegram, seat immediately after the result of the clection was assured, read.

"I congratulate you on your opportunity for complete vindication."

Were Near a Bloody Consinct.

Louisville, Ky.—Several of the most prominent men in the state came near having a very serious difficulty here: Helm Bruce, republican and one of Kentucky's greatest corporation lawyers; Henry Bosworth, democratic nominee for state auditor; Judge Chas. A. Wilson and Davis Brown, a distiller, were the participanta.

Mr. Brown went to an up-town precinct to investigate a charge that Mr. Brown went to an up-town precinct to investigate a charge that Mr. Brown went to an up-town precinct to investigate a charge that Mr. Brown with the republious judges to refuse to allow naturalized citizens to vote when their papers were signed by the late Judge John Mr. Gran. Mr. Bruce admitted that he had told the Judges that if he were is Caster position he would not accept sweld perfer.

Fight For Thousands.

Lexington, Ky.—John McClintock, a prominent capitalist of this city, has been notified that arguments in the famous Taylor will case will be heard in the Arkansas supreme court December 16. McClintock's wife is a daughter of the late Dr. C. M. Rey Taylor by his drist wife. When Dr. Taylor died at Little Rock he left an estate of a million dollars. He left Mrs. McClintock only $5,000 and the brought swit conly $5,000 and the brought swit check the will. The jury returned a verdict in her favor last November, whereupon the other heirs took the case to the Arkansas supreme court.

case to the Arkansas supreme court.

Fatal Poil Fight.

Lexington, Ky.—Clyde Campbell was killed, W. R. Campbell was killed, W. R. Campbell, patrolmas, and Michael Murphy fatally wounded, and Marron Smith, another poileeman, alightly wounded in a fight at the South Broadway voting precinct here. W. R. Campbell was a candidate fee councilman and protested against Murphy Interfering with voters at the poils. Murphy and Smith arrested him and, it is charged, his son shot Murphy. All of them began shooting, with the result name 1.

Scrapping Over a Circuit Judgeshig.

London, Ky.—John C. Eversde was defeated by L. D. Lewis for circuit judge in the new 33d judicial distract by a decided majority. Both are republicans, and both claimed to be the nominee in the primary.

Bloody Breathitt went Republican in the State election.

The Democratic "Home-Coming Day" in Kentucky is not so far in the future.

Auditor Hager and Treasurer Bosworth will soon be members of the Down-and-out Club, but not as a choice.

"Marse Henri's" I told you so editorial appeared last Friday. It was a strong presentations of con-ditions as the old man sees them.

Gov. Beckham is the Democratic nominee for United States Senator to succeed Senator Jas. B, McCreary, a fact that can not be gotten away from.

The position of party leader is "immense," so long as the party is in the ascendency, but when walking-the-plank time comes, the leader's life is not at all fascinating.

The Republican party which is so ready to claim credit for running the business of the country successfully will repudiate all responsibility for the present financial strungency.

Constance is the only precinct in this county that the Republicans carried on the 5th inst. It is always close enough to make a contest there interesting. It is normally Republican.

The candidate on the Democratic ticket who did not lose his county in the election on the 5th inst., carried it by a greatly reduced majority, an evidence of the weakness of the ticket.

Editor Needham of the Williamstown Courier, voted the straight Democratic ticket on the morning of the fifth inst., and lett for the Black Hills, equivalent to going up Salt River.

Boyle is the only county in the State that increased its Democratic majority in the recent election, while many fell off, only a few held their own and several gave Republican majorities.

Gov. Beckham's threatened roast of Watterson and others is about due, but it will not be as severe as the roast administered a few days ago by the voters in the State to somebody about the size and age of the Governor.

All sorts of political scrapping is now in progress among those who have been piloting the Democratic party in Kentucky for several years. Each one thinks the other er fellows are responsible for the wreck and destruction wrought by the ballot tornado on the fifth of this month.

In some counties the Democrats did not go to the polls on the fifth inst. and in other counties many of them voted the Republican ticket. This was the cause of the Republican victory, but why this action on the part of some and non-action on the part of other Democrats? Don't all answer at once.

It looks very much like the court of appeals will be called upon to settle an election contest from Lexington, which involves all the city offices from Mayor down. The Republicans claim that the frauds involved are as bad as those shown up in the recent Louisville case disposed of by the appellate court.

The magnet for high premiun rates for currency, is attracting the money hoarded by depositors the money hoarded by depositors in steel vaults and strong boxes and within the last few days many millions have been brought from hiding places and sold to money brokers at big premiums, thereby-relieving the financial stringency very considerably. Money is coming from its hiding places all over the country now, it is claimed, and money matters will soon show an improvement.

"Whisky on one shoulder and water on the other is not a winning election combination, the Democrats have learned to their sorrow, in Kentucky."

The above appeared in last week's RRORDER, and it now desires to apologize to the Democrats have learned to their sorrow, in Kentucky."

The above appeared in last week's RRORDER, and it now desires to apologize to the Democrats that broad assertion as they are not responsible for the attempted straddle on the whisky question in the recent very disastrous campaign in Kentucky.

Those responsible for the awful failure in an attempt to play both ends against the middle on that issue in the campaign is the set of chronic office holders who were trying to induce the people to retain their valuable services. It was not the Democratic party that was trying to ride two horses going in an opposite direction.

Bloody Breathitt went Republican in the State election.

The Democratic "Home-Coming Day" in Kentucky is not so far in the future.

Auditor Hager and Treasurer Bosworth will soon be members of the Down-and-out Club, but not as a choice.

"Marse Henri's" I told you so editorial appeared last Friday. It was a strong presentations of con-ditions as the old man sees them.

Gov. Beckham is the Democratic nominee for United States Senator to succeed Senator Jas. B. McCreary, a fact that can not be gotten away from.

The position of party leader is "immense," so long as the party is in the ascendency, but when walking-the-plank time comes, the leader's life is not at all fascinating.

The Republican party which is so ready to claim credit for running the business of the country successfully will repudiate all responsibility for the present financial strungency.

Constance is the only precinct in this county that the Republicans carried on the 5th inst. It is always close enough to make a contest there interesting. It is normally Republican.

The candidate on the Democratic ticket who did not lose his county in the election on the 5th inst., carried it by a greatly reduced majority, an evidence of the weakness of the ticket.

Editor Needham of the Williamstown Courier, voted the straight Democratic ticket on the morning of the fifth inst, and left for the Black Hills, equivalent to going up Salt River.

Boyle is the only county in the State that increased its Democratic majority in the recent election, while many fell off, only a few held their own and several gave Republican majorities,

Gov. Beckham's threatened roast of Watterson and others is about due, but it will not be as severe as the roast administered a few days ago by the voters in the State to somebody about the size and age of the Governor.

All sorts of political scrapping is All sorts of political scrapping is now in progress among those who have been piloting the Democrat-ic party in Kentucky for several years. Each one thinks the oth-er fellows are responssible for the wreck and destruction wrought by the ballot tornado on the fifth of this mouth.

In some counties the Democrats did not go to the polls on the fifth inst., and in other counties many of them voted the Republican ticket. This was the cause of the Republican victory, but why this action on the part of some and non-action on the part of other Democrats? Don't all answer at by the appellate court.

The magnet for high premium rates for currency is attracting the money hoarded by depositors in steel vaults and strong boxes and within the last few days many millions have been brought from hiding places and sold to money brokers at big premiums, thereby relieving the financial stringency very considerably. Money is coming from its hiding places all over the country now, it is claimed, and money matters will soon show an improvement.

will soon show an improvement.

"Whisky on one shoulder and water on the other is not a winning election combination, the Democrats have learned to their sorrow, in Kentucky."

The above appeared in last week's RRCORDER, and it now desires to apologize to the Democrats for that broad assertion as they are not responsible for the attempted straddle on the whisky question in the recent very disastrous campaign in Kentucky. Those responsible for the awfull failure in an attempt to play both ends against the middle on that issue in the campaignis the set of chronic office holders who were trying to induce the people to retain their valuable services. It was not the Democratic party that was trying to ride two horses going in an opposite direction.

35 ON THE TRAIL OF THE AMERICAN MISSIONARY

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

istinguished American Journalist is Traveling Around the World Io Purpose of Investigating the American Foreign Missionary from a Purely Disinterested, Secular and Non-Sectorian Standpoint. Illustrated with Drawings and from Photographs.

A Critic of Missions Finds Many Surprises

Shanghal, China.—What sort of man is the missionary, when seen on his native heath? China is the beat place to make answer to that question, for bero are to be found the greatest variety of missionaries, with zeal as his chief equipment, to the eminent colored as a scholar act 2 moselior of colored as Smith, of the American board, Dr. W. A. P. Martin, of the Presbyterian board, or Dr. Timothy Richards, of the English Baplist society. Between these extremes range all sorts and conditions of men.

The American conception of a missionary is a man with a book going out smong the natives preaching, preaching, always and coverywhere preaching, always and coverywhere preaching, as a dying tone find the processor of their residences. The Missionary is the missionary in the missionary in the same of the missionary in the missionary is a min with a book going out smong the natives preaching, preaching, always and coverywhere preaching, is a dying tone find the processor of their residences. The missionary is the missionary in the missionary is alary is on the average doe facts very few of these fiaming cospel firebrands. It is rather unexpected and disappointing to discover missionaries piodding along s routine way, pretty much as does a feergyman at home.

The Missionary's Big House.

sea and usappointing to discover is singular to produce the precisionaries produling along a routine produce. The Missionary's Big House. It is a clearly the must look upon bimself as an enable piece of board property, insiconary must take thought for similaritable home and physical sustee. Thus arises that much moot question, the missionary's resistance. Thus arises that much moot question, the missionary's resistance. Thus arises that much moot question, the missionary's real carried that the missionary's real and a hero. He is realed and prayed that the missionary without fear and without reproach." "without fear and without reproach." The most produced that the missionary without fear and without reproach." The most produced that the missionary work is commonly regarded as a person of peculiar scanlity at home The Missionary's Big House.

The Missionary's Big House.

Of secessity, since be early learns that he must look upon bimself as an expensive piece of board property, the missionary must take thought for a comfortable home and physical sustenance. Thus arises that much moothed question, the missionary's residence. Times without number it has been charged that the missionary dwells in a palatial house, and subsists on the fat of the land, with an army of servants to minister to bis wasts.

CHINA'S THREE OLDEST MISSI ONARIES.

cism. But first let me say that, in common with most others who have juvestigated the subject, I do not believe in an European's trying to live as natives live. The China inland Mission early adopted that method, and it has been obliged to maintain a hospital and santiorium, and to invalidome a large percentage of its workers. As a consequence, the practice of conforming to the native life is less general even in this organization tian formerly. A' white man cannot live as a yellow man, and keep his health, serious and costly missicates have been made by missionaries attempting to do so. As to the wearing of native dress, little need be said; most missionaries in the interior do so, in order to appear incompletous, and because Chinese clothes are comfortable, cheap and easily obtained. There are disadvantages in living a hundred miles from a button. Nevertheless, in many cases—by no means in all—the error is made on the aide of failure to conform as closerly as possible to native style. My own judgment has affirmed the criticism made to me in numerous specific cases, that the dwellings of the missionarie's calling; the natives, too, quickly come to see the apparent discrepancy between the preaching of children of the discrepancy between the preaching of cleid-fenial and the practice of menty for confidence and contract. The confidence is the discrepancy between the preaching of cleid-fenial and the practice of menty for confidence and contract and the cort of criticism made to me in unmerous specific cases, that the dwellings of the missionarie's calling; the natives, too, quickly come to see the apparent discrepancy between the preaching of cliffenial and the practice of menty for confidence and contract they themselves, nor their work, on measure up to the enthusiastic portraiture of uninformed supporters.

A Moticy Assortment of Missionaries, it is impossible to speak of "the missionary;" human nature does not lend itself to generalizations. Missionaries are almost as various a company as editors or doctors or lawyers. An honest critic cannot unqualifiedly approve or condem "the missionaries. Approve or condem "the missionaries approve or condem "the missionaries and the bitterest cannot unqualifiedly approve or condem "the missionaries and the bitterest cannot unqualifiedly approve or condem "the missionaries and the bitterest cannot be bitterest or an anticompetent as the bitterest cannot an expectation in the bitterest cannot be a mediciple quantities. I have met unmannered missionaries, alm missionaries, a waracous missionaries, splutonous missionaries, avaracous missionaries, splutonous missionaries, and whole that I have not found true of individual missionaries a whole that I have not found true of individual missionaries a whole that I have not found true of individual missionaries. Let those who know little of the facts on the individual missionaries are whom I have sure of missionaries, and work of whole they are dependent when they were the individual missionaries are incompetents with have a conjective of the missionaries of the mission of these, which bears most hardy in the beginning, is the separation from family and friends, as the years soften this, and the foreign field becomes home, there ensues, usually, the greatest trial of all, separation from children, who must be sent away to he educated. This is the heavlest burden borne by the missionary. Very little is said by missionaries in China about the danger from mobs, although all the older workers have liftlings stories to telf whon you get them to talking upon this topic. When Natives Get on the Nerves. Another price that must be paid for itle amid an alien people is the fact that the natives gradually wear upon the nervous system of the missionary, who as a rule, is a person of more than ordinary culture and of a sensitive temperament. Gradually the natives of get on a Toreigner's nerves, to a degree incredible to one who sevends bis days with people of his days with people of heavends. tive temperament. Gradually the natives do ject on a Torelgner's nerves, to a degree incredible to one who spends bis days with people of his own color and speech and manner of life and thought. The white men who are in the east for their own advant age usually arrive speedily at the point of detesting and despising the native, even to the extent of abusing him, if be be a Chimman of a Korran; they also abused the Japanese until the latter would stand it no longer.

While on this point of the character and calibre of the missionary, the test timopy of a British war correspondent with whom I traveled into the famine district of China, is worth quoting. When we attarted out be was bitterly prefudded against missionaries; thought them "no good" and a crowd of mischlef makers. Upon his return, after meeting many missionaries, be wrote a glowing tribute to their character, their disluterestedness and their efficiency.

dissected, it will be found that coperation in these cases acems simply the getting into business on other people's money, and weaving around the enterprise such appearance as, leads the unsophisticated to believe that from few dollars invested, great the savings can be made. In fact the co-operative plan is more for the purpose of advertising a private business proposition and gaining trade from those who invest their dollars in the plan.

It is a toolish thing for the resident of any town or farming community to invest money in such enterprises, which means competition for his home town, the killing off of its business and the building up of concerns in large clidea. The earnest man or woman can see in their own home place splendid chances for co-operation. Established business systems as found in the rural towns, are aspiendid examples of what co-operation should be. The bome merchant supplies the residents of the place with the commodities that they require: the merchant is the medium of exchange of the products of the farmer. In the transactions employment is given to home labor, and the little profits are kept at home for the benefit of all in the community. Co-operation can be simmered down to a strictly home-trade principle, and there can be no higher form, no system inaugurated that will bring better results to the masses. Before you invest in co-operative mercantile schemes devised by shrewd business men in the large clidea, study every phase of the question well, and you are likely to conclude that in your own town thou there is plenty of room for co-operative work.

EQUITABLE PROFITS

a Factor in the Matter of Prices.

Profits abould hear an equitable relation to cost of production. The farmer who has money invested in lands, agricultural implements, stocks, and other things necessary to carry on his business, when selling his products must take into consideration the interest on his money invested, the wear and tear of farm equipment, the wages of hired help and a salary for his own-service. When he sells his products for less than pays the expenses necessary to carry on his work and cultivate his crops, care for his stock, etc., he is the loser. The same principles apply to the person engaged in any other line of business. There is interest on capital employed, wages, taxes, license and cost of articles which comprise the stock necessary for operation. Goods must he sold at a certain percentage of profit or there will be a case for the sheriff or the bank: wrote a glowing tribute to their character, their disherestedness and their efficiency.

Well do I recall his astonishment one evening at the dinner table of a missionary, far in the remote interior, when he found the little company of missionaries quite as cultured, as cosmopolitan and as brilliant as bimself. He did not know that two of theyoung women present bear one of the most honored names in Virginia and Pennsylvania, and that they roceived their education in one of Philadelphia's most fashionable schools, and moved, as was their right, in the most select circles in the Quaker City. Yethere they were, hundreds of miles from anything that could be called civilization, spending their lives cheering for horde of dirty, ungrateful and uncongonial Chinese and serene in the confidence that they were making the best possible use of life. It was of a member of this same missionary community that my British friend said to me later, "Mr. Patterson is the finest man I have ever met anywhere in all the world."

Never before has there been such a stirring up of the masses and as awakening as to rottenness in financial staffar among the large corporations as at present. Some one at one time said that "when theives fail-out the devil gets his reward." So it seems at present when faction is arrayed against faction in exposing crooked operations in great financial and husiness desile, in which the little fish are swallowed by the big ones, and the men in control. like woives, lead the lambs to slaughter.

It is amasing how farspread are the fraude practiced, and how high up in public estimation are the manipulators of the notten deals. The stealings of the millionaires and multi-millionaires, the intrigues and their perturious lying and misrepresentations to accomplish their sime; the intricacy of the machinery used in their operations, the perfection of the means, the combinations employed to feece the people of dollars, would de credit to a Gagiticarto or a Machiavelli, or a Capt. Kild.

There cannot be doubt that these various aritoles appearing in the magzazines and general newspapers will have the result of opening the eyes of the public to things that rew hereofore ever gave serious consideration. They will have the executor in making investments of their carnings, and will result in lessons that are beneficial to the country at large. Home trade principles preclude the possibility of people losing by the operations of such gaines and general newspapers will have the result of opening the eyes of the public to things that rewards in the manipulators of stocks and the shearers of such and the shearers of lambs in general, you are not as ever under your own observation, and while the percentage of profit from some home investments may not be up to the representations and the shearers of lambs in general, you are not as elikely to be a loser.

MARKET DAYS IN TOWNS.

How to attract trade to towns is question that interests every business man. There must be some attraction for people of the surrounding country, some entertainment to please. Many some entertainment to please. Many means have been put in operation by different towns to bring about the objects desired. The people of the small er towns in different towns to thing steader have inaugurated street carnivals, fail feetivals and similar enterprises to entertain people from the surrounding farming sections. These methods have been universally successful, and have resulted in bringing trade to the towns that otherwise would have gour elsewhere. Not alone this, but the residents of the rural districts are brought in contact with the city people on a friendly basis and harmoulous relations established that are highly desirable.

residents of the rural districts are perought in contact with the city people on a triendly basis and harmonious relations established. At are highly desirable.

In many towns market days have been established. From early spring until late in fail one day in the month is set aside for "market days." For this occasion bands of music are engaged, balloon ascensions, baseball games, races and similar attractions are employed to interest the people. All these are free, the expense being borne by the business interests of the town the farmers are invited to bring to the town their horses, cattle, hogs, in the case of the control of t

NANTUCKET'S OLD BELL One of a Chime of Six Bells Brought From Spain in 1812.

From Spain in 1812.

Perhaps the most interesting of "sea-girt" Nantucket's almost endless chain of curiosities is the monstross Spanish bell which adorns the Unitarian church, commonly known as the South Meeting house.

Its genile, melodious chime peals forth every hour of the day, sounds the curfew punctually at 9 o'clock each night, gives alarm in case of fire, and for nearly a century has called good Nantucket folk to church of Sunday mornings.

The bell was cast in Lisbon, Portugal, in 1816, by one Jose Domingues da Costa.

Tradition has it that it was one of a chime of six bells, the set being cast for a Roman Catholic convent in Spain. The bell which is Nantucket's pride, however, did not remain long in the convent beliry. In that riotous age insurrections against the Roman church were frequent. Monks and nuns were driven from their abodes to places of refuge. The properties of the possible were stolen from the convent in some manner they were returned to Jose Domingues that the bells were stolen from the convent.

the bells were stolen from the convent.

In some manner they were returned to Jose Domingues da Costa, their maker. Jose, being in need of money, as one who must sustain such a bountiful name might well be, offered the bells for sale at auction in 1812. Captain Charles Clasby, a Nantuck-te whaler, who happened to be in Laston, was moved to take this special jewel from the sweet galaxy, and cary it to his far-off home. Accordingly he purchased it for a sum in English money, probably less than $10.

As he was then bound for the south pole on a whaling voyage, Captain Clasby, consigned the bell to the care of Captain Thomas Carey, who brought it to America in the bark William and Mary.

The bell was smuggled into Nantucket to avoid duty and was hidden in a warehouse cellar for many moths.

"In 816 it was purchased by the hurch acciety for $500. It rang for the first time on December 18, 1815, in celebration of the birth of a son to the village squire. But there is no record to show that it rang the same week, on December 25, when all the world was rejoicing in the amiver as follows:

TIED TO A CHAIR

to Move About On of Kidney Troubles.

HERE'S A NEW DEFINITION.

And Many There Are Will Say Senator Platt Was Right.

A rather cynical joke has been re-cently credited to Senator Platt.

The senator, on his last visit to the Manhattan Beach hotel, allowed a pretty little girl, a western million-aire's daughter, to be presented to aire's daughter, to be presented to him.

The little girl, in the course of one of her many chais with the aged statesman, said:

"Tell me, won't you, senator, what political economy is?"

"Political economy, my dear child," Senator Pic." "said to have replied, "is the art of never buying more votes than you actually need."

a speedy, Permanent Cure.

"Eczema appeared when our baby was three months old. We applled to several doctors and hospitals, each of which gave us something different every time, but nothing brought relief. At last, one of our friends recommended to us Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Olutment.—A few days afterwards Improvement could be noted. Since then we-have used nothing but Cuticura Soap and cuticura Olutment, and now the baby is six months old and is quite cured. All that we used was one cake of Cuticura Olutment, costing in all $1.25. C. F. Kara, 343 East 55th Street, New York, March 30, 1906."

York, March 30, 1906."

A Walking Map.
"The maps we have been giving as remiums to subscriptions caused a little temporary excitement in our office the other day." says the editor of the Adams Enterprise. "Den Spudge called and casually remarked in the presence of seven intending subscribers that the sald maps werent worth the paper they were printed on. As this observation caused the seven infending subscribers that the sald maps werent in their pockets we proceeded to make a map of Bers countenance, and we succeeded so well that he is now the best walking advertisement our map industry ever had. Cull again, Ben, old boy!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Baying "Heilo" to Heart Throbs.

"It is a curious thing," said a prominent lecturer recently, "how some books have a strong radiating personality, so that you feel like saying 'Howdy' every time you come across them. Last Christmas I tailed friends back at the old home on the farm. When the supper dishes had been put away, the chores done and the avening lamp lighted we gathered beside the organ for a good old fashioned 'sing,' on the center table were strewn the Christmas remembrances taken from Christmas tree on the evoning before. Glancing over them I suddenly exclaimed 'Hello! my good friend, Hello!" and as the others looked up with surprise, I picked up a copy of 'Heart Thrubs' and read to them from its pages the 'plece' I spoke in achool 40 years ago.

"That was enough to soft in motion the triendly entertaining spirit of Heart Throbs, and the music was forgotten as we took turns reading the humorous and pathetic bits of prose and verse that bave been preserved in this wonderful volume. Some books have great literary value, some have spistorical significance, but Heart. Throbs is the only book I know that slaps you on the back in a friendly sort of way, suiting itself to your moods, and proving raithful to every emotion. Next to my love of the Bible I love Heart Throbs. It is the most notable book of the times."

Restricted Choice.

"The people and the corporations," asid Seantor La Follette the other day, "remind me of a woman and her little boy. There was a very large chicken and a very small duck on the table and the woman pausing with the carving knifo raised, said: Johnny, which will you take, chicken or duck?" Duck, "pjeed Johnny, But the mother shook her head, No, Johnny," she said in a firm, yet kindly volce, 'you can't have duck, my dear. Take your choice, darileg, take your choice, but you can't have duck,"

LITTLE GIFTS THAT MAY MADE AT SMALL EXPENSE.

A Miniature Work Box, Rose F Cushion and Other Things That Will Prove Acceptable to Many.

Most of us have begun to think in earnest about our Christmas giving, and every woman who enjoys fashioning her own gifts is on the lookout for attractive little things that come within the limits of her purse and her needlework ability. The designs here pictured and described are all easily made, and have the further recommendations of disintiness, inexpensiveness and utility.

Travelling Work-Box.

Tho miniature work-box is a splendid contrivance to put in one's traveling bag. But four inches long, there is, nevertheless, room for a tiny pair cf scissors, thimble, an emery, needles, pins, roll of linen tape, card or darning cotton, two small wood riuttles of thread, hooks and eyes and a few buttons. For the case pretty ribbon should be selected, a trifle less than two inches wide. Cardboard, ribbon-covered, does duty for the two des, which are neatly overcast to

A Thread-Holder.

For the thread-holder cut two bearts of pasteboard, making the silts, or eyelets. Through which narrow ribbon may be run to hold the spools in place. Cover the shapes with silk or lines, buttonholing the silts. A spool of black silk, and one each of black and white cotton make a good combination.

Make Pretty Decoration for Sewing room or Bedroom.

Stenciled Basket That May Be Put to Various Uses.

Various Uses.

One of the beauties of stenciling is the variety of materials upon which it may be used. This means an endiess variety of thiggs to make, and without having them seem to have been run on by machinery. With different materials, different designs and different colors, the finished objects bear little relation to one another.

Wood is the nicest thing for stenciling because it will take anything that has color in it from the indigo in the lauedry to the lak on the library table. Dyes, tube paint, house paint thinned down with turpentine until the oil is overcome—literally anything with color, may be used for atenciling wood. The design is traced on a piece of stench paper of light cardboard, and cut with a pen-knife or maniture scissors. This pattern is then anchored to the wood and the color applied with an ordinary artists' brush.

A good thing to experiment on is an ordinary little fruit basket with a handle. AN ORRIS ROOT RING.

Nice Present for the Boy to Give His Mother,

The small boy is really forlorn when it comes to making Christmas presents for-mother. He wants to give her some of his own handlwork, but his fingers were not meant to sew and his carpentering and carving usually end in cut fingers and general distress. A ring of orris root can be made by any boy or girl who possesses a small gimlet, a sufficient quantity of ribbon and

A hole is bored in each one of the pleces and they are strung together in a ring on a ribbon. This is tied into a big bow at the top. The fragrance is exquisite and lasis really-for years, which is not always the case with the Christmas sachet. The ords ing is intended to be hung in a wardrobe where it diffuses its delicious secun long after the Christmas festivities are a thing of the past. MARGARET Threaded Ribbon.

Bed linen, lingerle, table linen and even brica-brac seem to have been drawn into the fad for threaded ribbon. All these articles, as well as the ordinary wearing apparel, hats included, are run through with ribbons of various widths. Hence beading, domble-hemsittching and eyelet embodiery are having tremendous vogua as the means whereby the ribbon effect may be added. In the case of crystal vanes and the like the ribbons are of exactly the shade of the glass, run through or a remain the brise and sperity of Town and Prosperi f Country Surrounding it Are identical—Local Merchant is Friend of Farmer.

A writer in the Fullerton (Neb.) NewsJournal gives some pointed reasons why the farming community surrounding every town should get behind the town and push its business interests, urging consideration of what that would mean compared to patronizing mail order, houses. If the town grows, iand values grow all around it. If business men are compelled to reduce their stocks or go to other fields in order to get husiness, it is not the town only but the farming community; that suffers. The question is asked, what personal Interest is it to any one in that country to earlied the mail order bouses? The money spent away from home is taken from the prosperity of the town, and just as directly from the prosperity of the country surrounding it. The writer declares that it is as much to the interest of every man who owns a farm in Nance county to keep. Pullerton flourishing as it is for the people inside the city to keep it hourishing. The contisued grey. Joed town always gives added value to all farm lands adjoining. The local merchant in a town is the friend and neighbor of the farmer. The mail order house is nothing for the individual interests of the farmer except to get his money. The local merchant has a for the surface of taxes, is always assisting the oburches and charities of the community. No such help comes from mail order houses. The larger business that is given to the home merchant allows him to carry the larger suck and to sell at a smaller margin. To sacrifice your home town is to depreciate local real estate values of both town and farm property. The town that seems prosperous and looks prosperous invites investment not only in the town, but in the locality, so that a stranger, looking for a location, becomes interested and a purchaser, while be would ordinarily leave the dead town and its surrounding territory out of consideration.

Deal in Shoddy Clothing.

Many of the old-timers these days wonder why the clothing they used to wear years ago was so much better than is now securable unless extremely high prices be paid. A little thought makes an explanation easy. This is an age of advancement in every way, and frauds increase along with improved machinery, scientific method, etc. In fact the whole system of improvement seems to involve means of lessening cest of production.

Thirty years ago such a thing as shoddy was not known. When one purchased a suit of clothes, it was "all wool," but at present it is an exceptional thing in cheaper garments to find this the case. The reports of the government show that each year hundreds of toos of shoddy, or woolen goods ground up, are imported into the United States, and a heavy duty paid on the same. This shoddy is manufactured into cloth by various processes. It is most often woven around a cotton thread, and sometimes is forced into the texture after the cloth is woven. In samples sent out by the cheap clothing concerns, this shoddy can be picked out. Often it is so loosely woven that if a bit of the cloth be crumbled between the fingers, it will fall out in the form of dust. Great quantities of 'this cloth are utilized by the makers of cheap clothing who do business through the mails direct with the warers. A suit of this kind can be purchased from eight to $20-and dear at that. The good separatily look well, but lose shape, and in a few weeks show all their defects. Seldom are such goods sold by regular clothing merchants, who have a reputation to maintain, and if they are, they are sold without misrepresentation.

Objected to Outside Supplies.

Objected to Outside Supplies.

Master plumbers in Newburgh, 'N. J., have declared war against the mail order business as applied to their line, and have refused to handle stock bought of mail order concerns. The decision was arrived at in the case of a man who is building on Washington Heights. The plumbers said this man sought for bids for doing the plumbing and was not satisfied with the prices. He then asked how much it would cost to do the work if he plumbing and was not satisfied with the prices. He then asked how much it would cost to do the work if he plumbers refused to consider this at all.

They said they are content with a reasonable profit on their supplies, but if these are not purchased from them they may as well go out of business for all—st., and they will make on the wayses of the men alone. The man had sent to Chicago for not materials and they had arrived here, but one after another of the plumbers refused to touch them. One returned to the connections were such the local men were not familiar with the work.

The man was in quite a quantary for a dime, because to have sent to Chicago to bring a man fiere, or in fact to bring anyone pere from out of town would mean as expense of at least $25. fin being the sum demanded for a license to do plumbles work.

GOODS MADE IN SWEATSHOPS.

The average resident of the small town or of the farming district has illitic conception of cenditions which prevail among the working classes of the large cities. Now and then some article may appear in a magasine or newspaper resisting to the "sweatshop" system, but few understand what this means. It is simply this: In the garment-making line and kindred industries different articles of goods are made by contract for so-called manufacturers. The sweatshops are found in the closely crowded townent districts, and generally are small rooms into which the workers are crowded. The different garments are but out at another puse, and are sent to be seen together to the "sweatshops" which serve as a living place as well as a twork shop. Each worker receives so much per dozen for garments sewed, and the price is barely sufficient to pay living expenses. A woman will twork all day sewing shrist together, and will receive from 50 to 50 cents for her ishor. Those who swe trousers, the same, and the coatmakers and towned the contract of the contract out the country by clothing from these infector places.

Sales to Mail Order Houses.

Proprietors who sell mail order houses directly should, by every lawful means, be induced to discontinue marketing their goods through these avenues. It desired results can be accomplished in no other way, the proprietors should be given the alternative of choosing between the retail-druggists, the logical distributers of their goods, and the demoralizers named. It is the opinion of your committee that druggists would receive far better treatment from all the proprietors of aggressive efforts were made by each druggist individually to discourage the sale of products that are overprieed, those that, are not protected in any way against price demoralization, and those that are applied by proprietors to mail order houses with full knowledge that they are supplying mail order houses, the free use of electrotypes (flustrating certain lines of goods) as are constantly appearing in the catalogues of these houses, electrotypes (flustrating certain lines of goods) as are constantly appearing in the catalogues of these houses, electrotypes that are identical with those the proprietors that they are supplying mail order houses, the free use of electrotypes (flustrating certain lines of goods) as are constantly appearing in the catalogues of these houses, electrotypes that are identical with those the proprietors themselves are constantly using certainly demands explanation.—Detroit Retail Druggist.

Mail Order House Compatition.

Mail Order House Compatition.

The competition of the mail order houses, one of the most threatening perils of the country druggist particularly, continues to grow. The providing of successful means for compating this unfair competition is imperative but exceedingly difficult to attain. Conferences with commercial organizations in other lines of business concerning this finiter are advisable, providing no legal entanglement would result therefrom.—Detroit Retail Druggist.

SECRET DRAWERS, GOLD FILLED.

Stories of treasure trove, treasure talands, gold bugs and secret drawers and panels are noy altogether confined to the imagination, as is proved by a recent experience of a resident of Tarrytown.

Some years ago in the division of the estate of a relative the only thing by which the Tarrytown man was remembered was an unusually heavy autique mahogany desk, which in due time was transported to the house of the recipient and then passed from active notice. In a leisure moment a few days ago the Farrytown man be gan to examine the gift and found much to drainie in its substantial construction and fine hand carving. In the course of this examination he came across not the mere tradional single secret drawer, but several secret drawers. What was still more to the brim with English gold pieces of the brim with English gold pieces of the standard was solved.

Nearly all the coins were of the value of five guineas, which gold piece, it may be explained, at a rough estimate, is equivalent to more than $28 and weights considerably more than half sauln as much as an ordinary silver dollar. The most recent of the gold pieces were of the period of George II. This king was represented by the five guinea piece in considerable to the word of the was account of the pieces of this denomination of George II showed the word "Lima" under the bust on the obverse, which indicated that they had been atruck from gold captured by English privateers from Spanish vessels on their way home from Lima, Peru. The other day the writer was in the Office of the Canadian Government at St. Paul, Minnesota. On the windows of the building were eigens to the effect that homosteads of 156 acres were given free to actual statlers, and in the windows were displays of wheat, cats, barley, other grains filled vegetables, which he was told were grown in Western Canada. This could be readily believed for in no other country on the Continent would it be possible to grow such splendid specimens. The world is now pretty well advised that in the growing of such cereais as have been named and vagetables as well the Provinces of Manitoba. Saskatchewan and Alberta have no competitor. For several years past specimens have been exhibited at State and Present Falre throughout the State, and these exhibits are looked upon as one of the chief Attractions. They have demonstrated what can be done in the climate of a country possessing a soil that will grow things. But that it was possible to grow vegetables such as wore seen there seemed to create some doubt. But it was the case. And spiles too. Not of course the splendid fruit grown in countries more congenial to such culture, but they were in evidence. Throughout Indiana, the hooster farmers were forced to, stop and think. When a similar exhibit was placed before them during the past few weeks, many of them were forced to stop and remark: "That is much thead of anything we can do. The quality of the gralow he have conceded, for has not so-and/so sent us samples grown on his own farm the like of which we had never-seen before. But to think of the vegetables—and such vegetables. Why, we thought everything was frozen up there, and these curulps, cabbages, caulitowers, beets, many golds, pumphins, and squasiles are away ahead of anything we ever saw glend for our with little outlay on the force than the nominal cost of $16 for 100 acres. At last the minister—who was a long-winded and rather empty preachermentioned his own name, and luquired: "Mr. — now, jisn't be sound?" "Oo, aye," said the sexton with a twinkle in his eye. #### FARMERS DETERMINED

Was by year farmers are becoming more determined to put a stop te hunting for their premises, and in a few years hence it will be get out entirely. The fact is no man has any right to go upon another's land without the owner's permission, and the older a country becomes the more determined are the land owners to saforce the law against trespass. Years ago when the land owners to saforce the law against trespass. Years ago when the land owners to saforce the law against trespass. Years ago when the land of the land owner's property of the law against trespass the land forest were superceded by pastures filled with livestock, the presence of the hunter became a menace to the land owner's property, and the deaire to get do for him has increased until strict laws have been enacted to prevent increpass by hunters, and in any direction of the law have been enacted to prevent sign, "posted?" Going upon farmer's light with the prevention of the law than is generally supposed, but it is seldom that one neighbor will enforce the law as against another aithough he is violently opposed to his stroling over his premises with dog and gun in pursuit of game of any kind, and an errespect has desires will not go upon his lands in his absence, nor because he knows he will not make an example of him by prosecution. The sign, "posted," is no respecter of person and does not mean that Mr. A cau go upon the suclosure while Mr. B must keep off. The asfeet plan is to go upon it on make is land for the purfocular property of Mrs. Seath C. Beneral Lands and the permission.

Water Power Going to Waste

Water Power Going to Waste.

The newly-created inland waterways commission is going to teach the people a lot of things ahout the most valuable mineral in the world—a mineral of which, because it is plentiful, we are more wasteful than of anything else, throwing it away wholesale, and exhibiting a stupid neglect of its possibilities of usefulness. So writes Rene Bache in The Technical World Magazine. The mineral in question is water. Everybody drinks it, and most folks use it for hathing. The latter employment is considered by many non-essential, but as a beverage it is so far indispensable that, if wholly deprived of it, all of mankind on the earth—not to mention the fowls of the air and the heasts of the field—would perish in about four days. The crops, too, are made to grow by the same beneficent fulld, which, incidentally, furnishes power on an enormous and steadily-inceasing scale for manufacturing purposes. To the harnessing of their rivers the southern states malily owe their recent industrial rejuvenation. The newly-created inland waterways

The cost of living is increasing not merely in the United States but abroad, and largely because of the arbitrary action of producers and dealers in advancing prices. The matter has become serious in some quarters, notably in countries where the wage scale is low. In Italy the public authorities are beginning to take matters in hand. The city government of Rome proposes to step in and fix a maximum price for all provisions, imposing penalities for violation of the posing penalties for violation of the regulations. Municipal ownership in regulations. aumicipal ownersuip in any form is something to be warr of, hut if such control takes the shape of checking extortion that adds vastly to the hardships of the people a great many may be inclined to condone the procedure.

Constitutional government is becoming to popular that it begins to look as though no country with any pretense of being up to datic will be content to remain without it. Even so conservative an old lady as the dowager empress of Chica has been selzed with a desire to follow the fashion and has promised her people a constitution. Persia, hitherto reckoned among the most non-progressive of nations, is assured a constitution, the shah having signed an edict to that effect. If Russia's care does not wish to be help-lessiy behind the times he will have to hasten to grant a constitution to his subjects. Why not try it, even if dums are not always as subservient to the royal will as misting commendation.

LATE HEAD OF KNICKERBOCKER UST COMPANY KILLS SELF.

PUTS BULLET IN BODY

Deed of New York Financier Attribut-ed to Distress of Mind Over Loss of Fortune and Standing.

New York.—Charles Tracy Barney, the deposed president of the Knicker-bocker Trust company, and until recently a power in the financial world, shot and kliled himself Thursday in his home. His loans with the bank, it is asid, are amply setured, and where he was forced from its presidency he was, to all intents and purposes, eliminated as a factor in banking circles.

he was forced from its presidency he was, to all intents and purposes, eliminated as a factor in banking circles.

What ill effects his unexpected taking off might have had on the financial situation generally had long since bese discounted. In distress of mind over the dissipation of his private fortune and the loss of high standing arong business associates, intimate acquaintances find the hidden drift that broke his health and reason.

Much eff his personal wealth might have been saved. At the time that Darney was dying at big how the heart and Park avenue, and surgeons probed for abullet that, misdirected by a nerve less hand, had entered the body helow the heart, a handful of friends at a downtown office were concluding an arrangement hy which the loose ends of the hanker's many enterprises were to be gathered up gad financed by a stock company which, if not wholly successful, would at least rescue from the wreckage sufficient to insure the promoter's tyture financially. The conference broke up at the announcement that Mr. Barney was dead.

Mr. Barney, who was in his fifty-seventh year, shot himself early in the day, while alone in his chamber at the rear of the second floor of his home. The bullet entered below the heart and lodged under the left shoulder blade. He died shout 2:30 o'clock after suffering intensely.

Bank Cashier a Suicide.

Kansaa City, Mo.—J. B. Thomas, cashier of the Bank of Albany, of Albany, Mo., a prominent Democratic politician and former grand master of the Masonic Order of Missouri, committed suicide at the Midland hotel in this city Friday, leaving no message to explain his action.

There is no evidence that the affairs of the Bank of Albany are involved in the tragedy, the surviving officers having asserted emphatically that they knew of no reason for the suicide of Cashier Thomas.

Thomas registered at the hotel at $3.90 o'clock Thursday night and went directly to his room, and was not seen alive again by the employes of the hotel. Whon no response was given to repeated knockings on the door, a carpenter forced an entrance. Thomas was found dead in the hathroom, fully dressed, with a bullet hole in his right temple and ciutching a pistol in his hand. The coroner decided that he had been dead several bours.

Thomas was 60 years old and had hed several important political offices and he had continued to take an active part in politics. His son, Claude Thomas, is cashier of a hank at Gravity, ia., and a daughter, Mrs. Dr. Stepleton, lives at La Harpe, Kan. His widow is living.

The other officers of the Bank of Alhany are: C. H. Kent, president; J. L. McCullough, vice president, and M. O. Mothersead, assistant cashier. The bank has a capital stock of $40,000, and a surplus and undivided profits amounting to $20,000, according to its last statement.

Much Disorder—Hundreds of Strike-Breakers Arrive.

Louisville, Ky. — For the second time in seven months—Louisville is suffering from a street car strike, the 850 union employes of the Louisville Railway company having walked out early Friday moorting.

The first day of the strike, however, was not sisrked by anything approaching the disorder that attended the strike last April, and when the partial service furnished during the day was discontinued at uightfall only 20 arrests had been made, virtually all of them for "disorderly conduct," which charge covered mainly the throwing of an occasional brick or jeering at the nonunion men.

The company operates, on a normal hasis, hetween 600 and 700 cars. It was announced by the officials that when service was suspended Friday evening they had 40 cars 'moning. Only about a dozon cars were run during the morning, and only a few passengers were carried during the day. The service was suspended in order to give the police a rest, the entire force having heen on duty for over 24 hours. Five hundred strike-breakers arrived during the day from Chicago and Indianapolis, and 200 more were expected. Adding to these the 200 nonunion employes who did not go out, the company officials claim they have almost a full force and will give practically a normal service. The strikers claim to have won over a number of nonunion men during the day. All talk of mediation or conciliation has been abandoned and the afair is regarded as a finish fight by the public as well as hythe strikers and company officials.

Equalization.

Springfield, III. — The state board of equalization, which has been—in seasion ten days after the limit, allowed by law, adiourned Wednesday morning. The report of the railroad committee shows a total assessment of railroads in Illinois to be about $100,000,000, an increase of $5,000,000 over 1906. The assessment on capital stock of corporations in the state is $10,000,100, about $2,000,000 less than the assessed valuation for 1906. This is explained by the fact that the tangible stock of Chicago corporations has been assessed at a nuch higher

Ritsher of counsel for Waish made his opening speech in defense of the financier. In the course of his address Mr. Ritsher said it was probable that it would be charged by the prosecution that loans in excess of 10 per cent. of the capital stock had been made to certain companies. He said that this was a violation of the banking laws, but did not constitute a criminal effect of tense. Nearly every bank violated the ruies, he said, and violations were countenanced by the comptroller. Here he was interrupted hy Attorney Dobyns. Mr. Dobyns objected and was sustained by Judge Anderson, who said:

"I can't see why one violation of the law excuses another. Even if all of the banks violate this section that cannot be pleaded here."

Some people prefer to take tablets, rather than to take medlens in a fluid form. Such people can obtain Perusa tablets, which represent the solid medicinal lagredients of Perusa. Each tablet is equivalent to one average does of Perusa.

His Word Not Good.

John and Jim agreed to settle a difference by fightling it out. It was understood that whoever wanted to quit should cry "nough!" John got Jim down and was hammering him soundly, when Jim cried "nough!" But John paid no attention to his cry and kept on pounding him. Again and again Jim called out "nough!" But John paid no heed and kept busy with his fists. A boy standing near asked: "Why don't you let the feller up? He's yelled "nough!" But Pies such a liar you can't believe him."

Not to Be Thought Of.

There was once a multi-millionalre (he was very "multi," indeed) who spent immense sums of money on his children. They had everything, including four automobiles and a steam wacht, each yacht-each.

Sill they were not satisfied.
"Can you" not," they implored,
"spend a little time with us, now and then?"
"Time!" cried the multi-millionaire, greatly shocked. "No, no! You are dreaming. It is impossible."
This fable teaches that time is not money, in any practical sense.—Excnange.

A FATHER'S GRIEF

STORY BY THE "HIGHWAY AND BYWAY" PREACHER

syright, 1907, by the Author, W. S. Edeo

"is the young man Absalom safe"—Many a father today is asking this question. The mlatake is that the query comes asking this question. The mlatake is that the query comes asking this question. The mlatake is that the query comes are concerned in the young man is not a matter of concern until the young man has progressed in the downward pathway of ain to the point where turning back is improbable and almost impossible.

Devid's anxiety was the greater because of the inner consciousness of his own responsibility for the waywardness and wickedness of jis son. As he sake the question: "is the young man Absalom safe?" there comes crowding in upon him the memory of many lost opportunities in the past for msking sure that the young man was afe.

Parents should begin to ask this question: "is the young man afe?" not after he has gone out into the way of tempetation and ain, but years before whils he is yet in the cradie. There the praying and the parents whelly pick the intimate associates. The question should be asked again and again, and should be asked again and again, and should be asked again and again, and should be asked again and what he is doing.

"And the king was much moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate, and wept."—What polgnant and hopeless grief is that which asses from a consciousness of guity responsibility for the vasgedy which has fallen. That is a pitilable sight—the sged king utterly cruahed and inconcibal because of the substitute of the color of the since from a consciousness of light, which have bern in upon his heart that it was now too late, two when the dying hour is made bright with the consciousness of Gol's presence, but what grief is that which sees no ray of light, which knows that the Goddes grave. And then how doubly hard to realize that because of the since of one's life and because of the since of one's life and because of the failure to speak the word, that lost soul is charge-able to him.

David was selfiah in his grief, which himself up to his grove wear of the since of 44G URELY they will remember my charge to deal gently with the young man!"

Thus spoke King David half aloud to himself as he sat in the gate of the city waiting for tidings from the army which had gone forth that morning to hattle with the army of Absalom. his son. Over and over again he had repeated the words as he had kept his long vigil, and the pislantive yearning in the voice and the haggard, careworn look upon the face indicated the depth of feelings which surged within. It was David the father, and not navid the king, who strained his eyes out over the plain, and longed for tidings of, the wayward son. Not since he had left Jerusalem, driven forth by the strong conspiracy of Absalom, had he ceased to yearn for the young man or plan for his agicty if the rehellon should be successfully crushed.

1. For this reason when the army the rehellion should be successfully crushed.

I For this reason when the army which had railled to the support of King David was marching forth he charged the captains of the three divisions, asylns: "Deal sently for my sake with the young man, even with Abaslom." And the men standing near heard and told others so that it was known to all the army what David had said. And now as he sai there in the gate and the hours dragged slowly by, David wondered it is admonition would be heeded. His geart was troubled because of the weight of personal guilt which he felt was reaponable in large measure for the present trouble.

Victory for the People.

The president has found it necessary to surrender again. This time, not to the standpat statesmen, hut to the will of the people. He announces through Secretary Garfield that no further effort will be made to bring a pagin the hill for the joint state-hood of Arizona and New Mexico. But more important still, Secretary Garfield predicts after a conference with the president, that the people of Oklahoma and Indian Territory will adopt their state constitution on September 17, "notwithstanding the criticism of Secretary Tark" and his advice to Republicans to vote against M. This aliasin to the objections of Secretary Tark tudicates that the president finds, it is no good hucking the will of the people, and finding the Oklahoma constitution will be surely adopted, in spite of his objections, officially made through Secretary Tark, he now throws the secretary overboard as a tub to the popular whole.

When Eng-land absorbed india her home isles contained shout 15,000,000 people; when Russis played her clever game, through Maravien, and ran away with the treaty of Algun and with Stheria, she was supporting about 65,000,000 people on her 5,000,000 square miles; when Kaiser Wilhiem heard from the gods of his ancestors that he was to be the military Emmanuel to the benighted African races, and forth-with went down there to establish in empire in the name of all the Chris-tian virtues. Germany had less than 40,000 people on 208,330 square miles. Now Nippon goes over to Korea, She is supporting about 50,000,000 people Now Nippon goes over to Korea. She as supporting about 50,000,000 people on about 160,000 square miles, of which the possible arable land is less than 20 per cent., and the actual cultivation is 13.8 per cent; that is to say, about 15,000,000 acres. She has heard the logic of necessity.

American Names.

If we have some growing sense of a desire to touch with poetry the terminology of our American towns we have succeeded so far only in securing a slightly picnic grove atmosphere such as is given off by Lakewood or Riverside. The rich sentimentalism of the real estate dealer have the real estate dealer has done what it could, says the Atlantic, considering the hurry he is in. If we have a new manufacturing suburh the chances are we shall be too laxily and fatty patriotic, call it Lincoln and be done with it, or too crudely romantic, in which case the secretary of the company will report to the directors that he has had the place incorporated as Ivanhoe. With the slightest dash of poetry in his soul he might keep true to the strenuous character of the place with all its prospective lahor agitations, and at the same time give a tinge of beauty to the situation for a tinge of beauty to the situation for the real estate dealer has done what agitations, and at the same time give a tinge of beauty to the situation for-ever by calling it Fretley. Or if it is a place where hammers are to ring from morning to night, why not call it Stroke instead of naming it Smith-ville, after the present chief stock-holder of the concern?

Transmission across the Atlantic of press and commercial messages hy wireless telegrapby has started off as quietly and unassumingly as though the enterprise were merely the opening of a new short land line. Yet the occasion marks what really is the beginning of a new spoch in communicating hetween distant points. To send successfully messages through the air for thousands of miles is a marvelous achievement, even in this age of marvels. Yet the system seems to have "made good." The management explains the lack of display and ceremony attending the hestinning of ceremony attending the hestinning of was two years ago, when the first messages were fashed over the ocean, the interval having been spent in perfecting defails. At all events wireless telegraphy is now to have its most conclusive test as a factor in the everyday life of the world.

Most persons have been amused at one time or another by the sight of a returned American traveler, with head held high and a look of studied meconsclousness on his face, carrying a hand-bag or suit-case almost covered by foreign hotel and transfer company labels. The desire to advertise is so piain that spectators always smile. The London Rallway Review, in cailing attention to this common vanity, attributes to it most of the difficulties which travelers have with lost baggage. The trunks and bags are so covered with tags that has the dimcuttles which travelers have with lost hags are so covered with tags that hags are so covered with tags that hags are so covered with tags that hag sage men cannot tell which one contains the proper address. The Review mentions one little hag a foot long and eight inches wide which bore 42 labels. Pride is nearly always a high-priced fuxury.

The ciergymen who are going to he required to pay full fares on the rail-roads will have the consolation of thinking that if they are killed while fourneying their widows will be able to collect full damages.

THE RECORDER. STEP IS TAKEN TO SET UP REPUBLIC

THIS HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED BY THE ENUMERATION OF POPULATION OF CUBA.

POLITICAL COMPLEXION NOT GREATLY CHANGED

With the Possible Exception of Pina del Rio, the Provinces Hold th Same Views—Number of Foreigner in Island Estimated at 400,000.

In island Estimated at 400,000.

Havana, Nov. 25.—With the completion of enumeration of the population of Cuba there has been accomplished the first step in the direction of the termination of the American intervention and the re-establishment of the Oaban republic.

This enumeration was actually an enforced registration of voters, the determination of the population of this land being of scant importance compared to that of registering all persons entitled to the electoral franchise, in order to Insure the purity of the election of the next Cuban president.

An estimate by one of the most accomplished statisticians in the service of the provision. 200. Imment Abacom the population of the island at two millions, of which about four hundred thousand are foreigners not entitled to the franchise.

thousand are foreigners not entitled to the franchise.

The indications are that there has been no great change in the political complexion of the provinces with the possible exception of Pinar del Rio, where the inflience of Pino Guerra, the millitary leader of the last uprising, is compeasant as a second of Pinar del Rio, where the inflence of Pino Geerra, the millitary leader of the last uprising, is very great.

Even to speculate on the outcome of the next election is futile, owing to the confusion consequet on the dissensions in the liberal party and the undefined attitude of the conservatives.

Had the election been held a year ago there is no doubt that the inherat's would have had an overwhelming victory, and that Alfredo-Zayas would have been president of Cuba.

Now the liberal party is hopelessly divided between the followers of Jose Miguel Gomez and Zayas, and an excellent opportunity is afforded for conservatives to organize and nominate a leader who will command the respect of the country.

Should they obtain the consent of such a man as Gen. Marlo Menocal to run for the presidency there can hard of the country.

Should they obtain the consent of such a man as Gen. Marlo Menocal to run for the presidency there can hard of the country of the country.

Should they obtain the consent of such a man as Gen. Marlo Menocal to run for the presidency there can hard of the country of the president of the country of the president of the country of the president of the country of the manufacture of which hay compel his retirement from the field.

Coincident with the completion of the enumeration is that of the election of the decident with the completion of the enumeration is that of the election of the field.

Coincident with the completion of the enumeration should be promulgated, so that if tranquility is maintained nothing stands in the way of carrying out the present programme of that government, which is to hold the municipal elections in May or June and the president lailection in the foliowing December, thus paving the way for the Inauguration of the president in may and the withdrawal of the American troops in July.

New York.—William M, Ivins, while investigating the affairs of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company for the public service commission Friday, declared that Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland and his friends, who formerly owned the Nassau-Electric Rativay company of Brooklyn, had watered its stock to the extent of $6,55,000 and then sold it to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company.

way company of Brooklyn, had watered its stock to the extent of $6,250,000 and then sold it to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company.

This was alleged to bave taken place in a reorganization of the Nassau company in January, 1899.

Questioning Timothy S. Williams, vice president of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company, about the reorganization of the Nassau company, Mr. Ivins said: "On that reorganization in find that they increased their bond issue, which had theretofore been $5.500,000, hy an additional $8,346,360.

They made an entirely new issue of preferred stock of $5,000,000, than the preferred stock, and to the theretofore existing $6,000.

Out of common stock they added $2.500,000, making a total of new issues of $11,346,360, and your acquisition was after this increase of capitalization. Can you tell me what these new securities were issued for?"

Mr. Williams said an explanation of the transaction was given in an agreement which Mr. Ivins had, but this was not read. Mr. Williams also contended that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company, if it had hought $6,250,000 of water, had subsequently squeezed it out.

"I cannot agree with you," said Mr. Ivins. "It looks to me like a plain case of stock watering, and the company had no right to charge that $6,000,000 on its books to the cost and equipment of the road. It was wrong in principle, and if it wasn't then against the law, the law ought to be amended so as to make such a transaction impossible."

How much does the tariff cost the farmer? As far as the individual farmer? Is concerned, it costs him accerding to what he buys. If he buys imported manufactured—goods, the tariff axi so ever 55 per cent, on the average. If he buys domestic goods that are produced by a trust or combine, protected by the tariff, the increased profit the trust or manufacturer charges is very nearly what the tariff tax would be on similar foreign-made goods when imported. It is estimated by the most reliable statigitization that the increased—cost of living through the tariff, to the average family, is over $100, of which the government receives $16.50 for tariff taxes, and the trusts and manufacturers receive shout $84. From this must be deducted what the farmer receives in the increased price of the sugar cane, sugar beets, wrapper tohacco and would hat he sells. How much that increase is can be figured very closely by each farmer, according to the profit on the amount of those four articles he raises. High and Low Tariff.

The period of the most rapid development which this country has ever experienced was between 1859 and 1869, under the Walker tariff law. That was a low tariff period; but within that decade the wealth of the country increased from $7,136,780,228 in 1850 to $16,163,780,068 in 1860. Not a single trust or monopoly was formed during that period. Not a single millionaire or pauper was created by law. Those who had got rich under previous tariffs "accelerated" the abolitionist movement, however, and the country went to pieces for a time, as the result of the "acceleration" of the abolitionist movement, however, and the country went to pieces for a time, as the result of the "acceleration" of the abolitionist movement, by the increasing the government's expenditures, and thereby necessitating a return to excessive taxation of the consumers. If the southern states had not opposed a protective, or monopolistic policy of taxation, there would have been no "acceleration" of the abolitionist party by the tariff (ea aristoriacy, which has for many years past endeavored to enslave the workingmen of the white race, as well as the black, by its advocacy of government by injunction administred by federal indress. A protective, or monopolistic, tariff means hostility by manufacturers to agricultural labor. That's all there is in it. Farm labor in this country create each year, on an average, values exceeding $2,000 apiece. How much of this does the laborer himself receive? We are told by the statisticians that on the average he gets less than $600. The trusts, therefore, get the rest, amounting to $1,400 on the work of each laborer. One trust magnate, John D. Rockefeller, etc $2,500.

gust $21.50 every minute; $5,250 every hour; $30,960 every day. Who earns it? There-are many others in the same class. We are told that there are in this country more than 14,000 women, who spend annually more than 35,500 aplee on dress alone; and that for the accommodation of this class of women hotels are being built in New York whose charges will range from $500 to $1,000 a day for one person. No such things happened under the Walker tariff. No such things would be possible under a democratic—system of government.

while all the farmers who do not raise these protoceted products are compelled to pay the tariff tax of about $100 a year to support the trusts and help out the few farmers who are protected. Is that Republican policy a squage deal for the average farmer and the general consumer? Lexington, Ky.—The suit of Ella M. Barbour vs. the L. & N. railroad for $5,000 was dismissed by the circuit court, it having been settled out of court. The plaintiff alleged that on a certain Sunday in April, 1906, she bought at Louisville a ticket for Lexington, paying $1.25. She claimed that she was placed in a car filled with men and was the only woman therein. She alleged that the agent should have informed her that it was an excursion for men, and so she sued for $5,000.

Youtsey Deserted.

Frankfort, Ky.—The women having in charge the proposed petition to Gov. Beekham to have Henry Youtsey, concerned in the killing of Goebel, pardoned, have concluded not to push the matter and the unelgned petition has been returned to Youtsey in the peaitentiary. The reason given is that no man could be secured to help get signatures to the petition.

GULF IN HORSESHOE CAVE

Belleved to Have Swallowed the Miss ing Lecturer.

In Lecturer.

Louisville, Ky.—When the searching party of 100 men, following two bloodhounds which had been placed in Horseshoe Cave to find the missing William Worth, a Louisville lecturer, came upon only one dog standing at the brink of a pit, they came to the conclusion that the other dog and the man lay dead or alive at the bottom of the hole. They at once returned six miles to the opening of the cavern at Horseshoe Cave, Ky., where they secured ladders and ropes. With these some of the hravest will attempt to scale the pit and to learn whether Worth is at the bottom with the other dog, according to a report from Horse Creek.

The bloodhounds were sent into the cave, and when they had progressed four miles they darred down a side passage which had never been tried four miles they darred down a side passage which had never been tried thefore. The patter of human footsteps was heard distinctly, say those who returned, but when the searchers came to the terminus of the passage they found only one dog, which was haying at the edge of a gloomy and apparently bottomices guil. The could hear nothing from the depths. The dog refused to return and is keeping watch at the hole.

FOUR BREAK JAIL.

Burgiary Saw Hols in Cell.

Henderson, Ky.—Four prisoners made their escape from the Henderson county Jail by cutting through a quarter-inch sheet of iron at the top of their cells and climbing 10 or 12 feet to the ground by means of a rope made of twisted blankets. The work was done with files or saws. It was a first-class job, and fooked as if if had been executed by a skilled machinist. The fugitives are all white men, as follows: Charles Gerichs, aged 21, formerly in the navy, charged with the murder of Curtis Gilmore, in this county: $75 reward. Frank Clarke, aged 52, charged with the murder of George W. Pritchett in this city; $100 reward. Obe Paimer, 27 years old, wanted for having burgiar tools in his possession; reward $50. Insimal Gibson, aged 21, charged with receiving stolen goods; reward $50. This is abe third jail delivery since the construction of the building, about 35 years ago.

Bank Tax is Held Valid.
Frankfort, Ky.—The court of appeals affirmed the consolidated bank tax cases of S. W. Hagar, auditor, vs. the First National bank of Lexington. The action involved the taxation of every national bank in the state. The court upholds the constitutionality of the act of 1906, requiring the assessment for taxation of the par value of capital stock, surplus and undivided profits of national banks and that money converted into government bonds is not exempted to this extent.

Nine-Foot Stage.

Louisville, Ky.—Fresh from the meeting of the Ohio Valley Improvement association at Wheeling, W. Va., Pinckney Varble reported to the Commercial club here that the nine-foot stage would be completed within the next 10 years. He adduced many appropriations and schedules of work to back up his statement. The next convention of the association will be held here next year.

Willson Wins By 15,142.
Frankfort, Ky.—The official returns from 116 cotratles, with the anofficial returns from three counties, show Willson's word in 119 counties to be 213,042. Willson's majority, 15,142. Hager received 197,900 votes, against Beckham's 229,014 and Belknap's 202,764 four years ago.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1907.

It remains to be seen if the good eople of Owen county will be able to ward off the impending attack anarchy.

The political millennium which the Republicans appear to think is at hand in Kentucky is a way in the future.

There is considerably more money in the country now than there was when the financial stringency struck it.

The Fairbanks following in Kentucky want accorded to him a very large slice of the credit of Mr. Willson's election, and the Taft people fear that he has made considerable inroads on their forces by reason of his appearance in the Kentucky campaign.

After hearing statements from a committee of publishers President Roosevelt has promised to recommend to Congress the removal of the duty-on-news paper and to have the Department of Justice investigate the paper combine, which, it is alleged, has been formed to control the price and which is practically dictating the amount and quality of paper that any publisher may secure, as well as the price.

The government has saired.

The government has seized goods belonging to the Tobacco Trust. This is a new method of attacking a trust and it will lead to some very interesting developments. The action has already suggested numerous inquiries of various sorts. One of them is a question by an exchange which wants to know what the government will do with the goods, if the courts decide that the seizure is lawful. This may be an interesting question but what most people are chiefly concerned in is not so much how the government will dispose of the goods as how it will dispose of the goods as how

The Sandy Hook performances in the Hargis trials, and the proceedings thus far in the Powers trial at Georgetown are novel departures in this State, that will not be referred to by future historians as the work of profound judges.

The Court of Appeals fired another Democrat out of office, last week, He claimed to have been elected as a County Surveyor. He got his name on the ballot in au Illegal way, and had to walk the plank.

It is claimed that 90 per cent of the growers in Scott county, the largest burley producing county in the disarlet, will sign the agreement not to also any tobacco in 1808.

summon jurors in the Powers case.

Four years ago in the Kentucky election for governor. Beckham, Democrat, received 229,000 votes as against 20,000 for Belknap, Republican, showing that the Democratic vote felt off 37,000 this year, while the total Republican vote increased only 8,000. Four years ago Loulsville gave Beckham 24,000 votes and Belknap 19,000. This year Willison received 28,000 votes in Louisville to 19,000 for Louisville the vote for Willson was no larger than that given Belknap four years ago. This would seem to leave the common Democratic Power of the po dently stayed at home for that purpose.

If the next Democratic candidates for county office are nominated by a primary election, it is probable that the order under which the election is held will carry some new and very important clauses that will make the canvass very much easier than heretofore on the candidate.

Gov. Bradley was the beneficiary of the Democratic party-work to straddle the money question in the 1896 State campaign, and Mr. Augustus E. The best time to select seed corn is when you are husking and cribbing your crop. By giving this work attention at the proper time, and putting the collection in a good, dry piace for winter, a considerable time and is shor will be saved at planting time. Nothing is noise annoying and expensive than a poor stand of corn, and this cau be avoided in userly every instance by having reliable seed to plant. Select your seed now and test it in the spring, and planting corn will not be a leap lut the dark, in so, far as the seed is concerned.

THE SPIRIT AND FEAST OF THANKSGIVING

Sido by side with the "long, unbroken custom handed down to us by our forefathers" of setting apart annually a special day "— Thanksgiving has also dwelt with us the idea that we must have as nearly as practicable the same kind of a feast as that enjoyed by the first settlers upon these shores. From a sentimental view-point this theory is undouhtedly correct, and would really work out beautifully were it not for certain changed conditions affecting our supply of seasonable provisions. A regiziation plan of directions and conditions affecting our supply of seasonable provisions. A regiziation plan of directions of setting up a proper Thanksgiving dinner even this year would, suggest the providing of oysters, turkeys, cheken for chicken ple, with vegetables, fruits, rich pastries, and delicacies in abundance—The idea is to arrange a composite meal which shall comprise as nearly as may be the various fruits and products of the earth. And a good and praiseworthy idea it is, too, if only wearshoody had the wherewithal to purchase for the shall comprise as nearly as may be an oysteries and a turkeyleas Thanksgiving for many persons. The causes contributing to this state of things centred—be discussed here; nor does it much matter to the man who enters a meat parket and sees a turkey which he, longs to purchase for his family, but why the commodity, with many others, its so far beyond his means. The thing is he knows it is beyond his means, and therefore having to intact that first Thanksgiving dinner in the forest.

In some respects the preparation of that feast, or the obtaining the articles comprised in it, must have been a comparatively simple matter. The settlers had hut to take down the fowling piece, go into the woods, and bring home the wild game. Well filled oyster beds lay quite near the shore. The harvest was fruitful; grain, wild fruits, such vegetables as they knew how to raise were shundant; nuts of various kinds were plentiful—what then, was to hinder the making reade unto the Lord? There is the point.

of the furkey, even though he is everywhere acknowledged to be the king of the feast, need not he counted a misfortune.

We are too apt to forget just how things were with the settlers. We take the idea of that great historical feast into our minds, and we overlook the dark shadows that must have been in that first Thanksgiving picture. It would ho a good thing if we would try to remember the "little graveyard by the water's edge," and make an effort to recall what the record says, that not one household in the New Massachusetts colony bût had recently heen visited hy death or severe and protracted iliness. But still the preparations for the feast went on, and at a convenient time they "solemized a day of thanksgiving unto the Lord."
Surely we can learn a lesson from the simple faith of these plous souis.
We are not called upon to-day to suffer the privations which were the lot of our forefathers, but any year may bring changed conditions which may necessitate more or leas self-denial on our part. If the man who finds himself mable to buy material for an expensive dinner knows that his famiself mable to buy material for an expensive dinner knows that his famliself county in health and fully able to endoy the dinner when it is prepared, he surely has good and auffirient cause for thankfulness.

Lucky and bigssed is the woman who can extend hospitality on this day, and lucky, too, is the host who can preside at his own board, among congenial splitts.

It is a very serious mistake to keep your guests at the table for three or four hours, as is frequently the case:

Three indispensable pies are pumpkin well seasoned with brandy, mince

New York.— Justice Wyatt in the court of special sessions Thursday held W. R. Hearst for the grand diry on a charge of criminal libel preferred by William Astor Chanier. S. Carvallo gave ball for Mr. Hearst.

The amount of the bond was fixed at 5509, the usual aum required in misdemeanor cases. Mr. Carvalho is the gedreal manager of Mr. Hearst. Shew York newspapers.

Both Mr. Hearst and his bondsman were in court when Justice Wyatt handed down his decision. They repaired to the office of District Attorney Jerome while the ball bond was being prepared. It was later approyed by Justice Wyatt and Mr. Hearst and his attorneys drove away in the big red automobile which had brought them to the criminal courts building.

The charge against Mr. Hearst grew out of a publication in the New York Evening Journal concerning the case of Raymond Hitchcock, the actor. Mr. Chanier's name was mentioned in connection with the article. Several hearings were had before Justice Wyatt, during which Mr. Chanier's name was mentioned in connection with the article. Passes Prohibition Bill.

Montgomery, Ala.—Unprecedented scenes were enacted in the senate chamber of the historical capitol of Alabama Tuesday when the statutory prohibition hill was passed. Women and children thronged the corridor, and gallery and even usurped the sanctity of the floor itself, pushing the senators from their seats and giving vent to their enthusiasm by shouts and cheers that echoed and reschoed through the building. Senators who opposed the bill were hissed down when they arose to speak against the measure.

The statutory prohibition bill which was passed was in the nature of a compromise between the antis and rorbibitionists. The antis, seeing the handwriting on the wall, agreed to cive up the fight provided the time was extended to January 1, 1908, when the sale of whisky will be fortidden in the state of Alabama. SUITED THE CIGAR GIRL

A young man who wore a noisy thecked suit and a white felt hat was shaking dice with the girl at one of the office building cigar stands yesterday afternoon, says the Kansas City Times. A man of 50, evidently a visitor from the country was leaning against a nearby pillar, intently watching the two at the cigar stand. The sporty "city chap" gossiped with the girl as he rolled the dice. He paid two prices for his cigars, but the sur he structed away showed that he girl had gratified his vanity. As soon as he was gone the man from out of town sidded over to the cigar stand: "Better shake for them," advised the girl.

"Let me have your umbrella," said the girl suddenly.

The visitor handed it to her. She shook it for a minute, then began to meke folds in a not recently had the old cloth rolled tightly, and fastened.
"Gee—looks just as good as new." said the man, delightedly.

The girl was pleased.
"Now give me your bat," she order-dover. The girl looked critically at the battered old black felt. Then she poked a dent in the top, made a circular crease. "Columbia style." and banded it buck.

"Crimuile, you'v no worder," sand ta owner. "Looks like a college hat now."

The girl tilted her head to one side and looked critically at the man of 50. "Now let me fix that tie." When that was done there was only one thing left. "You need a cigar," said the girl. "I'll shake first."

The man won the game.

THE KING'S RECALL

STORY BY THE "HIGHWAY AND BYWAY" PREACHER

Scripture Anthority: -- 2 Samuel

SERMONETTE.

"Why speak ye not a word of bringing the king back?"—Sad that the king has been forced to flee; but sadder still is it that the people are slow to bring him back.

What a picture we have here of the human heart and its relations to its Lord and King, Jesus Chriet.

The alluring voice of self-in-duignee and sin speaks in the ear and it steals away our heart and it steals away our heart and it steals away our heart and its steals away our heart from loyalty to the true King.

The next step in the downward course is open rebellious flat the read of the flat of the fl of cedar deserted, and the city without a ruler to whom they could turn for advice and help.

Think of the human heart without its King. The temple which God has created as his own peculiar dwelling place empty, or worse, occupied by self, and the whole life drifting without the master hand of the Pilot to steen clear of the rocks and the shallows upon which so many lives are shipwecked.

Let us go, then, at once and call back our King.

How many times daily are forced to do this very thing? Neglect, or conduct that is worse, drives forth the King, and we must turn and invite him again to enter, in order that we may sup with him and he withus.

THE STORY.

THE STORY.

NOT until after the news of the death of Ahasiom and the utter failure of the rebellion which had at the first been managed so brillantly and successfully did the people of Israel and Judah realize the enormity of their wrong doing. Then they wondered how they could have heen so easily led satray, and contention arose among the people, each charging the other with responsibility for the misstery. They saw now how vain and ambitious a follow the man Abasiom had been; how little of real worth there was to be found in him, and they saw alos as never before the storting qualities of titler aged king, and appreciated how much was owing to him for thation's greatieses and prosperity.

During those days of darkness, and doubt, and uncertainty, memory was busy, and the people recalled David's mighty deeds, from the first encounter with the giant Gollath to the many brillant campaigns through which he bid led his armies. When had the hadton had gene had elverer as David had been? When had they sever had such a leader as David, since the time of Moses and Joshua? Where was there a ruler in anil the nations about. And with the reaction which sand the name of Israel to be honored and the name of Israel to be honored and the name of Israel to be honored and the name of the security of the security of the people, and so loyal. "What shall be done?" Shame at their disloyalty, and anatty over the minds of the people, and the question arose on every hand:

"What was now to be done? Shame at their disloyalty, and anately over the minds of the people, and the question arose on every hand:

"What shall be done?" The king had been driven forth. What was now to be done? Shame at their disloyalty, and anately over the minds of the people, and the question arose on every hand:

"What shall be done?" The king had been driven forth. What was now to be done? Shame at their disloyalty, and anately over the minds of the people, and the question arose on every hand:

"What was of the memory of all these things sweet or warngling doubt he waited. But no word came from his people looking to his return.

But one day a delegation came to Mahanalm from the northern tribes, bringing words of good cheer to the king and urging his return.

"While thou art absent, Sheba, the son of Bichri, and others are busy striving to cause further trouble," they said. "Come with us, and we will establish thy kingdom."

"But how can I return," David cried to his confidential advisers, after he had dismissed the delegation. "while the people of Judah, mine own brethren, and while Jerusalem, the hoty city, speaks no word of invitation."

So this proved a great sorrow to have a superson to have the superson to him from Jerusalem, and those who served near to the king discerning the grief of his heart over this thing, sent messengers secretly to Zadok and Abiathar, the priests at Jerusalem, saying:

"Speak unio the clears of Judah, saying Why serve he have to be the part to have he to the heart to he king the tere to have a saying the provider of the provide messengers secretly to Zadok and Ablanthar, the priests at Jerusalem, saying, Why are ye the last to bring the king hack to his house? Seeing the speech of all israel is come to the king, even to his house. Ye are his brethren, ye are his bones and his flesh: wherefore then are ye the last to bring back the king?"

Now when this word was repetited in the ears of the elders by Zadok and Ablathar, after they had summoned them into their presence, deep sorrow selzed their hearls that they had so forzotten and neglected their king. "Why," ihey sald, "we had feared his anger, and thought that he would return but to punish us for our disloyalty."

"Nay, but thou hast misjudged our king, for his heart is towards his people and Jerusalem, continually."

"Yea, and -the cribes to the north have heen first to send word to the king to seeching his return. However, if thou shalt send speedly and ask the king to return he will forgive thy neglect and return with joy to his land," urged the priests.

"Then we will send st once," they all exclaimed. "For our city and our land is desolate without its king."
"So they sent this word unto the king."
"Return thou and all thy servante." And the king to returned, and came to Jordan. And Judah came to Jordan and stone the king.

"That's a fine break" you people have made in my ad, this week!"
"What's the trouble?" asked the edltor, in a tone calculated to mollify the indignant one.
"Read it and see!" commanded the advertiser, thrusting a copy of the paper in the editor's face.

A Girl'u Gipgie.

A Girl'u Gipgie.

Samuel Shadwell, a touchy old man living in an indiana village, had a pane of giass broken in his house one night not long age and next day he had a ten-year-old girl-named Minnie Dayton arrested for it.

When the case was called in court he was asked how he knew it was Minnie. He admitted that he didn't see her, but heard her gigzle. When asked if her gigzle was different from that of any other girl he said it was, but he couldn't tell why. Neither could he imitate the gigzle, and he lost his case.

We all know what a girl's giggle is, but if any of its were asked to give an mitation of it wed probably fail. A boy may fitter, but when it comes to giggling only a girl can do that.

awtu thing 'teared, but only chronic indigestion, which proper food can relieve.

A woman in Ohio says:

"I was troubled for years with indigestion and chronic constipation. At times I would have such a gnawing in my stomach that I actually feared I had a—I dislike to write or even think of what I feared.

"Wifeving an account of Grape-Nuga I decided to try it. After a short time I was satisfied the trouble was not the awful thing I feared hut was still bad enough. However, I was relieved of a bad case of dyspensia by changing from improper food to Grape-Nuta.

"Since that time my bowels have heen as regular as a clock. I had also noticed hefore I began to eat Grape-Nuta that I was becoming forgetful of where I put little things shout the house, which was very annoying.

"But since the digestive organs have become strong from eating Grape-Nuta, my memory is good and my mind as clear as wher I was young, and I am thankful." Name given by Postum Co. Battle Creek, Meh. Read the little booklet, "The Road to Well-ville." in packages. "There's a reason."

Personal Experience Counted in Her Indoorsement of New Pastor.

A Philadelphia congregation was called upon not long ago to choose a pastor. The last three ministers had heen persona non grata with most of the parishioners; and before selecting another the congregation did some pretty hard thinking. There was one woman of experience whose voice carried particular weight. Preacher after preacher was invited to the puipit for a trial sermon, and all, in the final analysis, were rejected by the female arbiter. At last there came slong a possible incumbent who met with her approval.

"The reason I sm sure he will give satisfaction," she said, "is because he has the right kind of a wife for a minister. She allows him to rant around all he wants at home and doesn't saus back. I found now a long while ago—abortly—after I was married myself, in fact—that a man who hasn't that privilege at home works off his spleen claewhere. A minister vents it on his congregation. That was why we couldn't stand the last preacher. This one will he all right. We won't hear a peep out of him."

And upon that unique recommendation the congregation really did give the man a call. According to last age-counts hoth he and the congregation were doing well. The wife has not been heard from.

Nut Growing Industry of the South.

"Nut growing is a comparatively new industry in the south Atlantic and Guif states, but it promises to develop into one of the most important in that section," said J. Z. Reid, a prosperous planter of Florida. "The most popular nut is the pecan, and its, popularity is probably due to the development of systematic methods of grading it and cracking it with machinery operated by steam or electric power. This makes possible the marketing of the meats of the nut ready for use.

keting of the meats of the nut ready for use.

"The demand is always much greater than the supply and many planters are now turning their attention to the nut raising industry. It is not uncommon for a tree to bear as high as 200 pounds of nuts in one season and most of these self-at from 60 to 70 cents a pound. It does not require much figuring to show that the pecan orchards which abound in some sections are paying investments."

nts of National Fame Will Discuss Taxation at Columbus.

In response to a call in August by Jovernor Harris of Ohio, there will be held in Columbus Ohio, November 2, a national conference of the National Tax association. Delegates have been appointed to this meeting by the governors of all the states, and to will, in addition, be attended by many tax experts from all over the pountry. The discussions will take a vide range, covering every phase of the question of taxation. Such a gatheriog as that which is to held in Columbus will result in disseminating a great deal of information on the subject of methods of axation and is bound to stimulate still further—the interest in this reform. Governor Beckham has appointed three gentlemen to represent the state of Kentucky, It is very much to be hoped that they will attend, as tucky has as great an interest as other state in this question and much greater interest than some r states that have made more cress than we have toward a betrogress than we have the large of the purpose of the conferences are hus announced:

To secure an authoritative and an anabastive discussion of the subject of state and local taxation in all of its

of state and local transform of the testalls. To produce a volume of proceedings sontaining the best thought of those who, by reason of their special educational training and practical experience, are qualified to speak with authority upon the special branch of the subject they may elect to discuss. To furnish to the members of the tegislatures of the several states a concrete, up-to-date statement of the economic and business principles that should be applied in state and local economic and business principles that should be applied in state and local tax legislation, to be used as a guide for their action when considering proposals to improve the tax laws of their respective states and in the administration of the same.

By this means to secure the application of correct economic and business principles in all tax legislation, and thus develop a high degree of uniformity in the tax laws of the several states.

THE STORY.

THE WIIO does not live over again the experiences of life-and find to them teasons and inspiration for larger, fuller, more complete life, robs timeself of much of the richness and timeself of much of the richness and timeself of life. Our perceptions are quickgeed and broadened as we hring before our vision the trails and hardships, the difficulties and dangers, the blessings and joys, the defeats and victories which have been encounter. Ed diring the journey of life. In the quiet of the heart's seclusion, away from the turnioil and conflict and commotion of the world the smil finds a haven in which it may calmly review the life, may see with clearer vision, may know with the nind and heart of God

The brief but thrilling blography which Scripture gives of David, "the man after God's own leart," depicts in remarkable way the light and heart of God the beautiful of the life, in the single life is the summar life. It is a wonderful story, from the time-we are first introduced to the bundle shepberd lad, down to the last chapter of his life, we are alruck by the ultense activity which warked almost every moment only partial appreciation of all that it means, but as the hill-creef of life is means, but as the hill-creef of life in means, but as the hill-cre

100 pounds, perceiving that King David fought in the midst of his men, thought in the midst of his men, thought to engage him in personal combat. Watching his opportunity, therefore, he cut the aged warrior off from the rest of his men, and then began a desperate parrying and thrusting between the two, which in the flereness of the general conflict was not noted by the men of David's with the series of the terrible Phillistine, but the vigor of young manhood was gone. His muscles were not as strong or as quick, neither the eye as keen as years before when he had led his army into battle, and ere long David found his strength waning. Realizing his advantage, the Philistine drew hinself together for a final thrust, and would have pierced the body of the king through and through, had not Abibai just at that critical and perlious noment rushed in between David and the Philistine and with one well-directed blow pierced the joints of the giant's armor and struck him to the leart. Then it was that the men of David's army wowed that their king should not imperit his life again in battle.

After the first shock of realization that the infurnities of age were creep.

After the first shock of realization
After the first shock of realization
After the first shock of realization
After the infirmities of age were creeping in upon him. David gave himself up to a nore complacent contemplation of the situation, and found more sand more delight in reviewing the events of his past life. So that what the lost of present activity he made up-by-living over again the stirring incidents of his career.

Diving these days of contemplation the place to which he loved best to go was the Tabernacie, where it seems at the feet of God and learning all the lessons of life over again. Thus 'the
way to the Tabernacie became a familiar one.

"How wonderfully the Lord has led and used me," he exclaimed to the prophet Nathan one day. "Before, I had viewed the incidents of my life as separate events, but now as I look back upon the long way over which I have come, It seems like one complete whole."

"But where God is in the life, is It not always so?" asked the prophet.

"Yes," "epiled David, simply," I think it must he. And now that I think of it, I have been conscious of God as a ruling factor in my life ever sloce that eventful day when the aged prophet Samuel visited my father's home in Bethlehem, and they summoned me from the fields where I kept waiteh over my flocks. Wonderingly and timidly I came into the presence of the streat prophet, but his smile and kindly words reassured me, and then he spoke the words which I have never forgotten. And he poured upon my head the anothing oil."

Ilis volce ceased, but after a moment of silent contemplation, he continued: "Called of God and anointdef of his service. Ah, the joy and evistasy of that hour. I fee! It yet.
As I went back to my sheep there was a new purpose in my service. I ceased to worry and fret over the narrowness and humbleness of my to, understanding, as I did that God had called mo. and -that in his good -time he would open the way for my service classwere."

The king passed, and then as the spinzied form of the old man and looking into his face with carnest glang.

Fits how? David asked, eagerly. Has the hand forgotten its cuntains the hand for the spinzied has been as stein? Nay, I know it is not, for I see thon hast it with the shop is siten? Nay, I know it is not, for I see thon hast it with the. And has the heart ceased to sing its songs of praise to its God? Nay, I know it has not, for did not I hear three but yesterday singing of the Lord as thy Hock, and thy Fortress, and thy Delivere? May It not be that out of the fullness of thy heart thou shalt yet gifve thy people a measure which shall-cheer and encourage them in the worship and service of the God whom thou dost love?"

Oh, that I might, David exclaimed. "It would be a glorious tribute to the Lord who has dealt so wondronsly with his servant. Yes, and I will," he exclaimed with sudden purposa "David may be too old to for to buttle, but his tongue is still able to recount all the goodness and power and glory of the Lord."

"Amen, and amen," rejoined the prophet.

The Chief End of Man.

Said Carlyle: "The older I grow—and now I stand on the brink of eternity—the more comes back to me that sentence in the brancolam which I learned when a child, and the fuller and deeper Its meaning becomes:
"What is the chief end of man? To glorify God and enjoy him forever."
This is true success, for it will stand the lest of time and eternity. And liks is a success unto which we can all alland.

Yes, but that is not all. There will be made under and the will not all express the Christmas apirit. Some will be made out of pockets of plenty and thus entail no personal service; some will he made under compulsion of supposed necessity. How many people give things at this time hecause they think they must. They must give to those who, they hope or fear, will give to them. It is aimost unfortunate that giving and taking has become such a feature of our Christmas celebrate because the mere gift is incapable of expressing the spirit of this occasion, and the occasion itself has become a burden to many because it has been so much aimsed. It is not by giving lavishly that we honor Christ, whose birth we ociebrate, but by sharing unselfabily every good thing we posaces. This puts the best things of Christmas within reach of every human life and enables every human being however poor in goods to give generously of whatever else he has. We all have much. Is money denied us, then let us give what is hetter, a word to cheer, a smile to awaken hope, something out of our hearts' treasure. Who would not rather get a cordial message from a friend that would express his chought and appreciation, than to get a dollar trinket? Minus the Body and Coffin Had Been Says Grand Jury That indicted Master Commissioner Boyd.

Madisonville, Ky.—When the grave of Mrs. Henry Delaney, who was murdered 15 years ago, was opened at Sturgis it was found that the coffin and body had been removed and the grave refilled.

Henry Delaney and Abbey Oliver were sweethearts years ago. When they were returning with her parents from Morgansfield on the night of their marriage men in ambush fired upon them. The young bride was killed and her parents were wounded. Delaney, who eocaped unharmed, was arrested on the charge of murder, despite the fact that he had been in the carriage with the victims. He was declared not gullty, but eight of his alleged friends were sent to the pententiary. The prosecution in the case charged that is "Nede was fir's deviced condition and that some person had here the body was stolen to balk a post-mortem examination or whether; the sole was the person who discovered that the grave was empty. Lexington, Ky.—Three jurors challenged by the commonwealth, two republicans and one independent, were stricken from the Powers panel, and one qualified juror was excused on the plea of great business loss consequent on his absence.

This leaves three republicans and one democrat who are finally accepted, and three democrats qualified, but subject to peremptory challenge.

Owing to the contentions of counsel the point of examining veniremen was never reached.

The order of the court combining the lists of the two venires from Grant county gives rise again to a federal question, the defense holding to the didea that being ordered for report on separate challenge and objection.

"After having the measles my whole head and neck were covered with scaly sores about as large as a penny. They were just as tick as they could be. My hair all came out. I let the trouble run along, taking the doctor's blood remedies and rubbing on salve, but it did not seem to get any better. It stayed that way for about six months; then I got a set of the Cutteura Remedies, and in about a week I noticed a big difference, and in three weeks it was well entirely and I have not had the trouble ahy more, and as this was seven years ago, I consider myself cured. Person of Resource.

As a source of humor the Irish servant girl has long since fallen from her high estate, a result probably due to the better class of young women from the Emeral lise who come here annually to help confuse the eternal "servant girl question." But now and again one of the old, nalvely ignorant sort turns up in a New York household, as was demonstrated the other day to a caller at a house on the West Side.

The girl who responded to the bell was asked if her mistress was at home. To this inquiry she surprised the caller by putting her arms behind her back and replying in a 'ich brogue, as she thrust her face toward the caller. In locking his safe the other night prior to bis going home for supper George Edgemont, a paperhanger who lives at Jefferson street and Hermitage lane, Manayunk, shut the afe door upon his flowing whiskers and was held until released by his daughter, says the Philadelphia inquirer.

Edgemont had been out collecting bills during the day. Returning to his office he opened his safe and placed the smossy. In it. He then threw the door shut, catching the end of his beard in the door. In the excitement incident to his odd predicament he forgot the combination and so could not release himself. With his chim resting on the safe he was discovered about an hour after the accident by his daughter, who came to find what had delayed him. The safe was broken open by a locksmith.

Good Word for Bank Clerks.

One new thing proposed at the bankers' meetings had special reference to bank clerks. The bank clerks in the country will be pleased to know that the new thing may go through before the time of next convention, says Glison Willets in Leslie's. The mey plan is to admit the bank clerks' association as part of the bankers' association as part of the bankers' association as part of the cliers and clerks a chance to attend the conventions and have a voice in the business. "And why not?" said a cashier of a big New York bank, while we sat with cashiers of other banks throughout the country. "The paying teller is, in fact, almost as important a man in any bank as the cashier. He can break a bank quicker than any other one man un the premises. By dint of faultless memory he holds his cage. In the face hours of banking, the paying teller cashes perhaps thousands of chocks. At a stagle stance he must know whether the signature on as the greather than all and the faces of their checks he may some day cripple. If wo threak, a bank in the great

Prize Money Won at Last.

Nearly 50 years have clapsed since Ursas. A. Hoyden, a Booton commercial deposited $1.000 with the trosives of the Franklin Institute to be awarded as a prize for determining by experiment whether all rays of light and other physical rays are transmitted with the same velocity. It was not outil this summer that the prize was won. Mr. Hoyden doubted the accuracy of the experiments of Garon von Wrede in 1840, tending to show that hight and radiant heat travel at different rates of speed, and he hoped to have the matter established by a more careful series of tests. Dr. Paul R. Heyl of the Central high school of Philadelphia experimented on the rays of Algol, a variable star in the constel latton Perseus, and established to his own satisfaction and to the satisfaction af a committee of expert physicists that the visible and the ultraviolet rays of the spectrum travel with the same degree of speed, and the prize has been awarded to him. Ilia paper on the subject was printed in the Journal of the Franklin Instit in the 2012 of the the prize has been awarded to him.

The German Katser Withelm is profoundly Interested in aerial naviga-tion, and after watching the experi-ments with military ballooms re-marked. "After what!. have seen to-day, I am hopeful of, the future of air navigation, and firmly believe in fu-ture successes." His majesty and others who are taking up the problem have come to the same conclusion as that formed 50 years ago by that pro-news in sallooning, John La Mountain, who repeatedly expressed the convic-tion that "am would yet lean to thy." Many other wonderful things have been brought to pass, and with the steadily-increasing knuwledge of set.

Returns from the larget practice of the warships of the Adantic fleet have been received and are regarded by the navel authorities as satisfactory and in some respects remarkable. But the army men, who have been stirred up by recent criticisms of award ofherer regarding the shouting by the seacoast artillery, have been keeping tabs and profess to have seen how the work of the navy can be improved in various respects. This is not at all alarming. On the contrary, it serves to show that both branches of national defense are on the alert and that each is trying to outdo the other in clineacy. That sort of genesous, friendly and carpert rivalry promises the most advantageous results to the country.

DRAMATIC SCENES IN BRADLEY TRIAL

R. BRITTON D. EVANS VIGOR-

DEFENDANT LAUGHED AT YOUNG BROWN

When He Told of Finding Her With His Father—Prisoner Appeared To Be On Verge of Collapse During Day —Defense Reste and Rebuttal Begun,

Washington, Nov. 27.—Dramatic scenes marked the proceedings in the trial of Mrs. Annie M. Bradley, charged with having killed former Senator Ar-thur M. Brown, of Utah, in this city last December.

thur M. Brown, of Utah, in this city last Decomber.

Dr. Britton D. Brans, of New York, the alienlar who testified in the Thaw case, not only doclared that Mrs. Bradley was insane when she shot Mr. Brown, but entered with such vigor on the task of defending his opinion and in denunciation of the conduct of the late senator that Justice Stafford reminded the witness that the late Senator Brown was not on trial and not there to defend himself, and admonished him to refer to the dead man only when necessary to show the effects of his acts upon the mind of the 2. fendant.

of his acts upon the mind of the 2-fendant.
The appearance on the stand of Max Brown, son of the dead senator, who was recalled in rebuttal, was affecting in the extreme. The young man, of a fragile physique, tottered when he made his way to the stand.

He carefully avoided looking toward the defendant, who sat within ten feet of him.

the defendant, who sat within ten rees of him.

When he told of seeing his father and Mrs. Bradley in the kitchen of their home, with jars of fruit they had brought from the cellsar at the time when his mother had been called out of the city to the bedside of her dyinz sister, the defendant laughed and lowered her head in confusion. But there was no sign of merriment on the face of the witness, who replied briefly to all questions put to him.

Dr. Charles B. Hill, professor of nervous and mental diseases in the Baltimore medical college, declared that in his opinion Mrs. Bradley was insame when she did the shooing.

The operations performed on her, the suffering, the disappointment and hereditary taint of insamity all combined to produce insamity in her. He thought she shot Senator Brown intensically, but while believing that she was doing right in so doing. A number of witnessos from Salt Lake, in addition to Max Brown, were turtoduced by the government in reputal, several of whom testified that Mrs. Bradley, during their years of acquaintance with her, appeared at all times rational and affable.

It was brought out that Senator Brown had made a proposition to Mrs. Eradley to accept $5,000 and $100 a. month until her youngest child should be 21 years of age if she would leave Mr. Brown alone, but the indignantly declined the offer, saying that she wanted to marry Brown in order that her children by him might be given a name.

During the testimony Mrs. Bradley her children by him might be given a name.

During the testimony Mrs. Bradley wept and sobbed and gave every indication that she was about to collapse. She, however, mustered such strengtn as she possessed and concluded the day's ordea in fair condition.

The resting of the defense came in the nature of a surprise, as it has been expected that the alienlats would be kept on the stand for a much longer period.

One entire section of the mine was found to be cut off from the outside. All who are back there are dead or dying. The great quantities of gas often found in the mines in this territory means quick death for these men unless their rescue is speedily accomplished.

The report of the explosion shook buildings in Fayelle City and could be heard for miles. Instantly the populace recognized its import.

"Another mine disaster," was the frightened prediction uttered simults—necusity by a thousand of lips.

In the homes of miners the explosion feel like a death signal and emptied every miner's cottage in the vicinity. The occupants of these—men, women and chilren—form the saddest pletture in the scenes about the mine this morning.

The women and children are crying continuedly and stare with hope at the seemingly fruitless work of rescue.

Figures on the number of men imprisoned in the mine vary, and it is impossible to get a correct estimate from the officials here. That there were over 50 men in the entries some of the miners who escaped assert, while bankment, Turning Somersault.

Automobile Dashed Over Steep Em-

Escanaba, Mich., Dec. 2.—One of the most spectacular automobile accidents over recorded in Michigan occurred near Gladstone when the big touring car, moving at a mad pace, dashed over a steep embankment, turning a complete somersault, killing one of its occupants instantly and injuring four others. All members of the party were clitzens of Marinetee, Wis., who had riven to Escanaba on a pleasure tour.

The dead: Capt. F. E. Brent, officer of the Wisconsin national guard.

The injured: Summer K. Prescott, Tree injured: Summer K. Prescott, Tee Injured: Summer K. Prescott, Stephenson, fr. nephew of United State Senstor Isaae Stephenson, of Wisconsin; Joseph Duxberry, Insurance agent; W. H. Holquest, Ilveryman.

Dies of Football Injuries.

Anniston, Ala., Dec. 2.—William Norwood, aged 18, who was captain of the football team of the Alabama Presbyterian-college, died as a result of injuries received in a football game with the Seventh District Agricultural school. His spinal cord was severed.

"And how long do you think I, ought to make my speech to the jury, sif" he finished up.

"I should say about an hour," said the old hand.

"An hour! Why, I thought ten minutes would be ample! Why so long?"

"Well," said his adviser, "you see, they can't sentence him till you're finished, and the longer you talk the longer he'll be out of jail!"—Stray Stories.

Stories.

Just His Luck.

"Well, old tellow, I hear that your aunt is dead."

"Yes, she died yesterday."—replied—the old-fellow somewhat sadly.
"It is the way of the world. We must ail die some time, and the old lady was well advanced in years. She left a last will and testament, of course? I understood she was wealthy."
"Oh, yes, she left a will and testament," still more sadly.
"You were always a favorite of hers. Your name was mentioned, of course?"
"Yea," he replied, "my name was mentioned. I'm to have the Testament."

One Waiter with Sense.

Man in a restaurant, happening in just as a new shift of waiters came on. And having eaten a very modest innehen this man laid down a modest tip, to be exact, five cents.

And did the waiter shy off or snift at this nicket? He did neither, but on the contrary he seemed to regard it as an augury of good fortune that his first customer should have given him something, and—"Thank you," he said, politely, to the customer, and as he turned away he added to himself: "That's a starter."—N. Had "Coffee Nerves" from Youth.

"When very young I began using codes and continued up to the past six months," writes a Texas gtrl.

"I had been exceedingly nervous, thin and very sallow. After quitting coffee and drinking Fostum Food Coffee about a month my nervousness disappeared and has never returned. This is the more remarkable as I am a. Primary teacher and have kept right on with my work.

"My complexion now is clear and rong, my skin soft and smooth. As a good complexion was something I had greatly destred, I feel amply repaid even tho this were the only benefit derived from drinking Postum.

"Before beginning its use I bad suffered greatly from indigestion and headache; these troubles are now unknown.

"Best of all, I changed from coffee to Postum without the slightest inconvenience, did not even have a headache. Have known of ged drinkers.

A Christmas Story

By ANDREW D. GRANGE.

She cut me short with an angry lit-ty," said kitty.

"The temptation—" I began.

She cut me short with an angry little frown.

"That has nothing whatever to do with it," she remarked icily.

"On the contrary," said I, "it palliates the offense, if it does not allogether excuse it. Let us consider the facts of the case. You were spending Christmas with your aunt, Mrs. Gienforridon, in the country, One evening, as you were passing along a darkened corridor, on the way to your room, you met a certain gentleman."

"He wan't a gentleman," she interposed quickly.

"Oh!" I exclaimed. "! certainly thought that your aunt's guests."

"He wan't a true gentleman, she headed disdainfully, "or he wouldn't have acted as he did."

"A discourteous gentleman, then-who taking advantage of the darkness, deilberately kissed you upon—"
"One't he ridiculous!" she snapped. "I asked you to help me."

"Tame deadworing to do so," said I. "Then do it properly!" I assumed an air of profound gravity. Kitty regarded me thoughtfully out of a corner of her deep blue eye. "You see," she continued, "I don't know who it was—and—well, you know, it makes it rather awkward for me."

"Didn't you see his face?" I asked. "No," she answered. "He came upbehind, and—and it was all over in a second." She shuddered prettily. "It was quite dark," she added, "and I only saw his shirtfront. He was in evening dress, you know."

"But were there no distinguishing features, such as a shirt stud, or—a moustache?" I suggested.

"Oh, yes!" she responded quickly, "he had a moustache; and I think he was tall, because he had to bend down when —when he did it. His shirt stud was a plain gold one, I believe." "Well," said I, "how many tall men were there in the party who possessed moustaches and plain gold—shird

"Let me see," she mused; "there was Capt. Jack Hariand, Mr. Porter, and your nephew Jack."

I frowned severely. Jack was an impertment young rascal, whose presumptious attentions to Kitty Mainwaring had disgusted me on several occasions.

ner."
"Yes," she assented, almost cheerfully; "but I don't think it was Jack.
At least," she added with a bright smile, "I want you to be a dear old— I mean, a good, kind-hearted person, and find out for me."
"It shall be done!" I cried, rising both to the occasion and to take my leave.

Here had I got myself into no end of a mess, and most prohably lost two good friends, at least, not to mention making myself utterly ridiculous, over this confounded business, and all the time I might have guessed who was the real offender. I whised now that I had waited before casting suspicions upon the hospitable captain and the influential Mr. Forter, both of whom would doubtless cut me dead in the future. But, alasi when a man is in my condition, he— Suddenly an idea occurred to me.

"Very well, my fine fellow," I said, thrusting the letter into my pocket, "we shall see—what we shall see. He who laughs first, laughs worst. This will settle your little game, at any rate!"

"It is," said i, frowning at her levity, I was feeling in no particularly light more done, "Don't you think, Jack," she said. "you ought" to tell your uncle about—about 1st.

III.

Miss Mainwaring was at home. I made my way up to the dainty blue and white shrine in which Kitty received her most devgted worshippers. I found her standing by a small teatable in the center of the room when I entered.

"Ah," she exclaimed, running to meet-me, "I am glad you have come!" "Not more so than I am," I replied, pressing her hand warmly, "Oh, heaps!" she said gally. "I am just dying to hear the news. Have you discovered anything?"

"I have," said I taking-a seat by the teatable. "I have discovered everything."

"I have "y said I taking-a seat by the teatable. "I have discovered everything."

For a moment. I thought she was going to get up and dance round the room. Then suddenly she became grave, and the light died out of hereyes.

"Oh!" she remarked, "it was Jack."

She poured out a cup of tea and passed it to me, keeping her eyes fixed on the tea-cosy the while.

Then we talked about other matters until it was time for me to go.

"Good-bye," she said: "and thank you for taking so much trouble."

"It was no trouble." I assured her. One must do the polite thing, you know, at any cost.

"I can only hope." I continued, "that in time you will be able to forgite way nephew for such an act of gross impertinence."

"Ah. yes!" she answered warmly. "I think—yes. I am really very glad it was Jack."

"Oh!" I ejaculated sharply.

"Rather than one of the others," she concluded hastily.

I wandered disconsolately in a less-frequented part of the avenue trying to think things out. It was now cose upon a month since my last tete-a-tee with Klitty, and during that time I had never once been able to catch her alone. Indeed, on-most of the oceasions when I called she was out, a piece of bad luck I had not hitherto been accustomed to; and when I did find her in, she was either surrounded by friends, or engaged in elaborate sewing operations which necessitated the constant attendance of her maid. Chee or twice, too, I caught sight of Master Jack in town, when by the calendar he ought to have been pursuing his studies; and the circumstance coupled with his obvious anxiety to avoid me, flied my mind with a vague foreboding.

"What the deuce does it mean?" I asked myself, as I strode along witheyes thoughtfully bent upon the ground, regardless alike of passers-by and the people who would have passed by had I not coilided with them.

I cannone of an eminent digalitary of the church, and ran full tilt against a smartly dressed couple who weed adding round the episcopal back. (I could only see the billowy edging of

"Hum—she-excee." "lightedpray accept my congratulations," I stammered.
"Thanks!" said Jack. "I thought

"Ah, yes—of course," said I, whi a fattle attempt at dignity. "Kitty is a charming—that is, you will both be—er—very happy."

"We mean to be," he asserted stoutly, "Don't we, little woman?"

"Yes," she whispered softly, prealing his arm with her daintly gloved hand. Irony of ironics! I had bought those gloves!

"I'll look you up this evening at your club," said Jack, making as if to move on.

Till look you up this evening at your club," said Jack, making as if lo move on.

"Yes—do," said I.

They departed in a blustering gale of laughter, two young, handsome, perfectly mated creatures, and I—I sammed my hat firmly down upon my head, and walked away as if the love affairs of a mere boy and girl could have no interest for a confirmed old-bachelor of something and forty.

Kitty and I are the best of friends still. She is Mrs. Owen now, and doen not seem at all to regret having thrown herself away upon a worthlessyoung scamp like Jack. She actually adores the fellow, and has forgiven him his outrageous treatment of hec, even though the only "extenusting circumstance" was a bunch of mistleteel. But then, women are like that—humbugs, yes, humbugs, I call 'em!

Lumber and the Tariff.

The tariff in relation to lumber does not illustrate the tariff evils representatively. Congressman Scott knows that and practically admits it. He also says he is in favor of the removal of the tariff on the cost of lumber and the added inducement it offers for the organization and maintenance of a trust in the lumber business, anything that would lead the timber cutters into Canada and away from what is left of American forests would be for the general good in this country. As for Canadian duties following the removal of American duties, it is pertinent to recall the years of effort made by Canada to secure a reciprocity treaty with the United States with especial reference to the needs and the surplus of the respective countries, and how fruitless this effort was. Canada is no longer seeking reciprocity. It is employing a purely selfsh tariff wherever it finds it in the least advantageous—thus following the example of the United States.

No Banger in Tariff Revision.

ample of the United States.

No Danger in Tariff Revision.

Tariff, revision, by its real friends, will not even disarrange the nation's fiscal revenues, because an honest tariff will yield as much revenue ultimately, as, a dishonest one. The "standpatters" would risk future national prosperity for the privilege of allowing extentionate trusts to rob consumers. That is the essence of the claim that the present tariff needs no revision.

TREVISION BY ITS FRIENDS

Fallacy of Stock Argument of Tariff "Standpatters."

The stock argument of tariff "stand-patters" is that when the inevitable time for tariff revision rolls around, this precious national bulwark must be revised by its friends, and not by this precious national bulwark must be revised by its friends, and not by its enemies.

This prompts the logical query: Who are the real friends of an honestly applied tariff system? Is it the millionaire trust 'wrars' who use tariff schedules for squeezing huge dividends from American consumers by artificial prices? Or is it the American people, who are quite willing that the protection idea shall prevail so long as the tariff's periodically equalised to prevent the robber practices of oppressive trusts?

The real friends of the tariff are willing to admit that it has been a national bleasing. That is why they are determined to revise it to revent its becoming a national curse. Intelligent tariff revision will destroy robber trusts, but it will not harm industries that really need protection.

Where the Taxes Go.

As Ferry one is a taxpaser to the government of sariff and internative-control of sariff and in the government, but you have also paid nearly $80,00,000 surplus that even the extravagant Republican congress could not, or did not spend. That amount and twice as many more millions of former surplus taxes is now being secretly loaned to the astional banks, and no interest is paid on these loans. The customers of the banks horrow this money and pay the going rate of interest, which for some time has averaged over ten per cent. for commercial loans. You don't know the names of the banks, or the amount each bank has received of money you have paid in surplus taxes. That, for political reasons, Secretary Cortelyou has ordered to be kept a profound secret. Probably the subscriptions of the bankers to the Republican campaign fund next fall, in return for the free loan of these vast sums, will in turn never see the light of day. It would seem that you have a right to know who is getting the benefit of all this extra taxation, but it is pretty—certain—that—neither—the administration—or the coming Republican congress will see fit to let you into the secret.

Will you continue to vote to keep ropoliticals in power who collect so much more taxes than are necessary on purpose to loan; it to the favored national banks without interest? Such financial legerdemain is a premium on political corruption.

The seems to be a systematic and mancial legerdemain is a premium on political corruption.

Deceiving the People.

There seems to be a systematic and malignant effort on the part of a certain class of people to undermine the reputation of America's greatest men. Not long ago some scamp announced in Republican papers that George Washington was a tax-dodger. He had cally retured to pay an illegal tax, just as John Hampden had done, and just as the people of Boston subsequently did. But the scamp insinuated that it was a legal tax which Washington retured to pay. It was not; and Washington did not pay it. The British crown was afraid to enforce it. King George remembered what had happened to Charles I, as the result of the ship money case, in which Hampden figured. These same scamps pretend to have discovered that Stephen Girard, founder of Girard college, one of the greatest charities in the world, had a dungeon under his house, and that he placed his creditors in that dungeon, and so escaped the payment of his debts, and thereby amassed the great for time which he gave for the education of American youth. The people should be put on their guard against these calumines. They are not only lies, but they are intended to disgust uninformed people with American deals.

About Panama.

The report to Secretary Taft on conditions of employment on the lathmut of Panama, which were investigated by Miss Gertrude Seeks, secretary of the National Civic Federation, has been made public. Miss Beeks does not view matters in the canal zone with the optimistic vision that the government reports would try to make exist there. She finds much to condemn, including bad food and worse lodgings; a thousand men is box cars; no nettings to protect negroes from yellow fewer breedings mosquitoes, and at Ancon hospital both patients and employes were warranted in complaining about bad food. One of the nurses said: "Tell the president I do not want a "square deal," but very particularly a square meal." Some of Miss Beeks' recommendations have aiready been adopted by Secretary Taft, and President Rooseveit has requested the top require the strength of the president of the fire was almost out, so he put on some more coal. SECRETARY STRAUS, IN HIS A NUAL REPORT ON COMMERCE AND LABOR,

RECOMMENDS CONTROL OF CORPORATIONS

Less Stringent Immigration Law for Chinese Higher Classes and an Increasing Severity in the Regula-tion of Steam Vassels.

Washington, Doe. 9.—National control of corporations; a less stringent immigration law for the Chinese higher classes; defects in the contract labor law; an increasing severity in the regulation of steam vessels, and sepecially frame varrying passengers on inland waters—these are some of the recommendations contained in the annual report of Oscar S. Straus, secretary of commerce and labor, which was made public.

He lets, the whole subject of Japanese immigration severely alone. After complimenting the large corporate interests of the country, which easy, had materially aided him in various investigations, and speaking of the publicity aimed at in corporate affairs, he adds:
"So great has been the centralization in business affairs that such publicity completed in the control of the control the public as the only proper basis for fair and intelligent action thereon."

He draws attention to the fact that in 1905 China held first rank among oriental countries as a cosumer of American products, our exports to American products, our exports to China that year amounting to $53.000, 000, while in 1906 China imported $44, 000,000 of American products and during the present current year only $26,000,000.

The secretary continues in part as follows:

"The subject of immigration is naturally one that has advanced to a position of greater importance in the country than in any other country during modern times. The laws that have been passed upon the subject, while in no way hostile to immigration as such, have proceeded upon the general policy of selection, thereby excluding more and more individual coming under the general designation of 'undesirable classes.' The act of February 20, 1907, has made very material changes.

"The total number of allens admitted during the year was 1.285,449, which exceeded that for the fiscal year 1905 by 258,850, being increases of 17 and 25 per cent. respectively. During the year 13,004 allens were rejected, an increase over the rejections for the fiscal year 1905 of the fiscal year 1906 of 185,240."

Many-horrors must be endured by Russians, convicted of polltical offenses. Nikaleiff Petrovich Starod-versity-was sent 40 prison in April, 1884, a young fellow of 21 years. He came out a few menths ago, a man of 43, with an appalling experience behind him. He and his companions were shut up in the prison of St. Peter and St. Pani in St. Petorsburg. The cells in which they were confined were hardly above the level of the river. When the river was in flood the rats invaded the cells in order to avoid drowning. One of the female prisoners, who had a child in her arms when the someticent in quantity and detestable in quality and cockroaches were found in it. Of his years' experiences, M. Starodvorsky says that of 48 prisoners five committed suicide, three got themselves shot in prison, three died mad and uine of illness. Insain prisoners were kept with the sane and he himself lived a year and a half with a mad companion who was of noble birth.

College Clubs Employment Agencies.

College Clubs Employment Agencies.
College clubs are becoming wonderful employment agencies and the universities themselves also. The Yale club, of New York, and the bureau of self-help of the university in New Haven report a greater demand for Yale men than they can supply, and the same story is true of Harvard. Recently a wealthy Pennsylvanian, a Harvard graduate, came to Cambridge and won over to his business a west en Harvard graduate who had just entered the law school. The university was the medium which brought the two together.—Boston Record.

NEW STRENGTH FOR OLD BACKS. HAD NO DOUBT OF HIS FATE.

Backache.

Broadway, Canton, S. D., says: "For three years I suffered everything with rheumatism in my limbs and adult, ceaseless actiling in my back. It was weak, languid, broken with headaches, and dizzy spellis, and the kidney secretions were thick with solids. I was really in a critical condition when I began with Doan's Kidney Pillis, and they certainly did wonders for me. Though I am SI years old, I am as well as the average woman of 50. I work well, sat well and sleep well."

RATHER A POINTED REBUKE. Minister's Amendment to Usual Grace Fitted Circumstances.

A Pennsylvania divine formed one of a house-narty in Philadelphia where the younger son, in accordance with what the cleryman observed to be his constant habit, as soon as he had seated himself at breakfast immediately possessed himself of a large site of bread, the quality of which he proceeded to test by a liberal mouthful. The minister, a stickler in such mathers of propriety, gazed blandly at him for a moment or so, then he folded his hands and closed his eyes in preparation for grace.

"For what we are about to receive," he intoned with pediaful emphasis."

Man and Wife Fatten on Grape-Nuts

The notion that meat is necessary for real strength and the foundation of solid fiesh is no longer as prevalent as formerly.

Excessive meat eaters are usually sluggish a part of the time because they are not able to fully digest their food, and the undigested portion is changed into what is practically a kind of poison that acts upon the blood and nerves, thus getting all through the system.

"I was a heavy meat eater," writes an Ilis. man, "and up to two years go, was in very poor-health. L suffered with indigestion so that I only welghed 95 pounds.

"Then I heard about Grape-Nuts and decided to try-lt. My wife laughed at me at first but when I gained to 125 pounds and felt so fine, she thought ahe would eat Grape-Nuts too.

"Now she is fat and well and has gained 49 pounds. We never have indigestion any more and seldom feel the dealer for meat. A neighbor of ours, 68 years old, was troubled with indigestion for yene; was a beavy meat eater, and now since he has been eating Grape-Nuts requirly, he says he is well and never has indigestion by changing from a heavy meat diet to Grape-Nuts." The judge's delight was so great that by way of appreciative acknowledgment he presented Mrs. Blank with a beautiful ermine cloak. Quite naturally, the incident was a good deal noised about among the social acquaintance of the Flanks and a spirit of envious emulation was developed in certain quarters. It was in this mood that Mrs. Jerome recited the story to her husband. "What do I get, Jerry?" she asked, "I I will do the cooking for a week?" A man had been very badly treated by the proprietors of a boarding house, and when in temporary financial difficulties had been forced to leave. Some time later, smiled upon by fickle fortunc, he achieved success and prosperity as a popular dentist, and soon found means to revenge his former landlady's slight. The method he adopted was simple but extremely effective, quite ruthing the business of his enemy. Directly opposite the boarding house he opened his new dental establishment, and upon the largest window in bold letters appeared the following notice: "Steelpointed boarding house teeth a specialty!"

All is One Trunk.

A New York woman recently won a suit against a transfer company for the value of articles contained in a trunk which was lost in transit from her summer home to her city residence. The trunk was a large one—of the "Saratoga" variety—and the claimant affirmed that it contained personal property to the amount of $750. The abbreviated list of articles filled three inches of small type. Many items were indefinitely described, "stockings" and "mora's underwear" being examples. But it was explicitly stated that the trunk held, among many things, 17 gowns and 15 skirts, ten pairs of boots, five sweaters, ten lace curtains, five bedspreads, four bjankets, two rugs and a large assortment of cuttery—in short, a liberal wardrobe for two persons and practically all the belongings of their cottage, omitting the seabreezes, the hammocks and the mosquitoess. The wardrobe for two persons and practically all the belongings of their cottage, omitting the seabreezes, the hammocks and the mosquitoes... The average man has a place for everything and keeps everything in it; yet, says the Youth's Companion, he can scarcely put a razor and six handker-theirs into a suit case without leaving somethig to lap over the edges, and if he bas the misfortune to be a bachelor he will view the catalogue with skeptielsm. But many a head of a family will put aside his doubts, and may even declare that his own wife could have found room for even more in the trunk. She has taught him the feminine version of a familiar law of physics, which is, that two objects can occupy the same space at the same time, because one can go inside the other.

White Mice on the Fiag.
Licut. R. G. Hervey, of the British navy, has designed a flag for the use of submarines. The flag measures 18
hy 12 feet and its background is in by 12 feet and its background is in three vertical sections, one colored yellow, another red and the third blue. In the center is a black shield, divided into four parts, two-of. which are occupied by a submarine and three torpedoes. In each of the remaining quarters is a white mouse rampant. This is the first time white or any other colored mice have appeared on a flag. The explanation of their presence on the submarine flag is that white mice are always carried on a submarine boat as a safeguard to tho white mice are always carried on a submarine boat as a safeguard to the crew, says the Montreal Gazette. Ro-dents are considerably more sensitive than men to noxious gases, such as those which have a tendency to ac-cumulate in a submarine, and immedi-ately the mice show signs of collapse it is known that there is danger, and accordingly the boat is brought to the surface.

It is never safe to generalize from incomplete data; but a New York physician has drawn some interesting conclusions from an examination of paysician has drawn some interesting conclusions from an examination of the lives of 74 great men and women. In a paper read before the International Congress on Psychiatry, or mental diseases, the physician—a woman—said that comparatively few gentuses were the first-born of their parents; in fact, only 10 of the 74 whom she considered were the eldest children. In many cases the gentus of the family had been the youngest. Coleridge was the last of 13; children; Washington Irving the last of 11; Franklin the youngest son of a family of 17, and the youngest son of the youngest son of swert and youngest son of swert and youngest son of swert and youngest son of the youngest son of swert and youngest son of swert and youngest son of the youngest son of swert and youngest son of the youngest son of swert and youngest son of the youngest swert and youngest son of the youngest swert and youngest son of the youngest swert and youngest swert and youngest swert and youngest swert and youngest swert swert and youngest swert swe

An amazing instance of human perfidy was brought to the attention of the police the other day, says the Buffalo Express. A young man complained that his uncle had promised to drop five dollars a month in his infantile savings bank if he abstained from liquor, tobacco and froward conduct until be attained his majority. The lad avers that he has faithfully kept his part of the contract, but that on opening the bank he found it empty, whereas it should have contained $800.
Thus the complainant has missed ati
the delights of youth and has nothing to compensate him except his good habits.

Nevertheless, let's hope that Miss Nevertheiess, let's hope that Miss Yanderbilt will be happy with her $12,000,000 fortune. It is a good deal of a hurden, but there are ways of lightening it. Among the least ad-mirable of these may be mentioned marrying a foreign gentleman with a title to support.

Given.

Washington. — Secretary Corteiyou has decided to reduce by onehalf the issue of Panama canal bonds and allotments to the amount of only $25,000,000 have been made. The lowest price at which offers will be accepted will be between 102 and 102½ranging up to over 106, the average being a fagure slightly in excess of 103. The amount of certificates which will be allotted is between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000.

During Mr. Cortelyou's term as secretary of the treasury the permanent addition to the interest bearing debt of the country has been increased by $25,000,000 of Panama bonds and the temporary debt running only for one year has been increased by $15,000,000 certificates. The interest hearing debt on July 1, the heginning of the present fiscal year was approximately $894,000,000, which on November 1 had been reduced to $855,000,000, a reduction of $35,000,000, and counting the Panama bonds, a net decrease of $11,000,000. The annual interest charge since the first of the year has been reduced by over a mililion dollars.

THE STORY.

A FAMILIAR knock sounded upon the door, and an instant later, without waiting for the cheery invitation from within, the young lat came bounding in, the fushed face and sparkling eve and eager manner indicating clearly that he had some matter of tremendeds interest and importance, at least to himself, to communicate. In fact so impatient was he to unburden his mind that he scarcely responded to the hearty words of welcome which were spoken by the elderly man who was scated by a table near a small, low window.

"You will ask father for me, won't you'r you good, dear friend. Nathan," butst out the lad as he threw himself at the feet of the elderly man and looked eagerly up into his face:

"Ask him if thou canst come and see me oftener," responded the prophet, half playfully, half seriously. "Yes, I had thought, thou hadst quite forgotten me," And he put his arm affectionately about the shouled of the youth and glanced with proud, had look into his animated countenance.

"Don't tease me!" pleaded the boy. "I couldn't come yesterday to see you for the Egyptinn scholar, the guest of my father, was going that day, and could not bear to miss one word of the control of the prophet have letting mo."

knowledge in my land." And after spause he added: "I would rather study books than learn a trade."

Nathar-the-prophet looked ear-easly into the thoughtul oyes of the boy before him. 'He was almost 12, the age at which overy Hebrew boy was taught a trade, md-even now the prophet was planning the future of the young man before him. Not all the king's sons had learned trades, but Nathan felt that even though he was a king's son, it would be better for Solomon that he be given the training common to Hebrew lads. The care over and discipline of the young boy had failen into Nathan's hands. Ille it was who had been first to speak over the little life the benediction and biessing of the Lord, and when he had given him the name of idelidiah he realized better than any one else that he was indeed the "beloved of the Lord" and that the Lord had destined him as the future king of Israel. For this preson consternation filled his heart as he heard the words of the young lad. He had wanted to hold him under Jewish is words of the young lad. He had wanted to hold him under Jewish is one was with longing eyes looking toward Exprt as the goal of his ambition. For some few minutes the prophet illd not answer, the meantime keeping lis eyes upon the boy's face as though he would-look to the soul within and read its every secret.

The open, frank, clear eye did not finite before the searching gaze, but instead the boy stood quietly and deferentially wilting for Nathan to speak. He had learned to love this man of God as a father, and in many respects there were closer bonds of union between him and his own father, King David.

"Yedidiah," at last softly spoke the prophet, "knowest thou the thing that thou askest?"

"Yea, that I may possess the learning of Egypt."

"Yan, rather theu art asking for the right to forget thy God and thy pepile."

The face of the boy flushed oriming the continuence of the searching gaze, but thou askest?"

"Yea, that I may possess the learning of Egypt."

The prophet did not make reply and the boy went on after a moment's panses;

"The Egyptian said that as sun of a king I would have special advantages and privileges. You'll ask failer, won't you? And I want you to go with me; I wouldn't want to be separated from you," and the boy put his band affectionately upon the other's arm of the prophet was touched, and a tear glistened in his eye as he said:

"Leave me now, Jedidlah, I will give thee answer later."

"What would be the result," he he asked himself, as he sat atone, "If the boy should go into Egypt."

Would the boy come back less and iracilte and a follower of the true God? Would God be pleused at his going?" Such were the flood of questions which surged, through the ineart of Nathan. "Had not the las snoken truly when he had said that it was not disloyalty to God to sire knowledge?" He would speak to pavid, he finally resolved. King David should decide.

"You didn't tell mes when to come hack," apologetically spoke Solumon as he eniered the room of the prophet that evening, "so I came back to night."

"He would should be witness and one with the would should go with me; I wouldn't want to be; separated from you," and the boy put his hand affectionately upon the other's arm.

The heart of the prophet was touched, and a tear glistened in his eye as he said:

"Leave me now, Jeddidah, I will give thee answer later."

"What would be the result," he he asked himself, as he sat alone, "If the boy should go, Into Egypt?

Would the boy come back less an Israelite and a follower of the true God? Would God be pleused at his going?" Such were the flood of questions which surged through the heart of Nathan, "Hand not the lad spoken truly when he had said that it was not disloyalty to God as spoken truly when he had said that it was not disloyalty to God to desire knowledge?" He would speak to David, he finally resolved. King David should decide.

"You didn't tell me when to come back," apologetically apoke Solumon as he enicered the room of the prophet that evening, "so I came back tonight."

"Thou art determined to go?"

"Not determined," replied Solomon respectfully, "for I will abide by thy decision, and that of my father, the king. Birt I do want to go."

"I remember that the greatest lesson I have ever learned in my life." said the bystander, "was pointed out to me by my little daughter. I had never been a drinking man: but some times after the theater, I am ashamed to confess. I came home many anight slightly the worse for wear and liquor. The habit grew on me, in spite of tearful curtoaties from my wife. I took a bottle of whisky home one afternoon. After dinner! I made for the bottle, which i had left in my study, poured out a glass and raised it to my lips, when I caught a reflection in the polished woodwork of the wall. I turned quickly, and there was my little daughter standing in the doorway looking at me. I could never describe the expression on her face." If one mingling of repreach, pity and disgust. Probably she had overheard conversations between her moliter and myself; perhaps the mother had instilled that feeling; perhaps it was lastinet. I have not taken another drink from that day to this."

tion Depended, Refuses to Return.

Georgetown, Ky.—A decided sensation was caused here when it became known that Frank Cecli, one star witness for the "prosecution" in the Powers case, had disappeared during the alghet. Cecli formerly lived in Middlesboro, Ky., but now resides in East St. Louis. III.

Since the trial began he has been a guest of the Wellington hotel, where the attorneys for the prosecution are. The prosecution claims that the defense has run Cecli away to keep him from testWing, while the defense be lileves it a trick on the part of the prosecution to delay or stop trial, as Cecli is known to be one of the stongest witnesses against Powers.

Robert Noakes, jointly charged with Taylor, Powers and Finley with being accessory "seassismation of Goebel, testified that under direction of Finley and Powers, lie took a body of men to Frankfort in November, 1893. Louisville, Ky.—The McDonald site of 150 acres, lying just west of the city and near Shawnee park, was selected by the state board of agriculture as the permanent home of the state fair.

as the permanent home of the state fair.

Four sites in all wore considered, but the fact that the purchase price of $60,000 leave $117,500 in the state fair treasury for buildings and improvements won for the western tract. Had the Arbegust tract been selected, which was the choice of the merchants, only $10,000 would have been left in the treasury, and the McDonalistie is two miles nearer Louisville than the nearest of the others. R. E. Hughes resigned as secretary of the state fair, owing to the press of many other duties. His resignation was accepted with regret, and Caldwell Norton was elected treasurer of the board.

Marion Hutchinson's barn, in the same community, has been visited and some of his tobacco destroyed.

The feeling in the rural districts is worked up to fever heat. Many of the farmers who have not pooled their to-bacco came to town, and the merchants seiling guns, shot and powder did a thriving business.

DEPOSITIONS TAKEN IN COX SUIT

Jackson, Ky.—Both sides are taking depositions in the damage suit for $100,000 against Juidge James and Elbert Hargis, Ed Callahan, John Smith, John Abner and Asbury Spicer, brought by the children of Dr. B. D. Cox, who charge the Hargises and other men with having procured Cox's assassination. The case will be called for trial here, having been brought here from Breathit county. The defense is trying to secure testimony discrediting Asbury Spicer and John Smith, who have confessed that they helped Abner murder Cox after being employed by Judge Hargis and Callahan. Their confessions are on file in court here. The defense is trying to prove that Smith and Spicer were away from Jackson on the night of the killing. This case will partake of the nature of a regular murder trial, as practically the same testimony as given in former drais will be given.

The grand jury returned an indiement, yesterday, against Chas. Hoffman and L. C. Applegate, charging them with taking and appropriating to their own use property of another person to the rathe of $80 or more. Their bond was fixed at $40 each and the prosecution was continued until the second day of the next term.

The damage sult of G. G. Hughes against A. M. Aera has gone over until next Tuesday, when the defendant's motion for a change of venue will be heard.

Corn, in common with other crops this season, has been very erratic, in that ripening has been slow and irregular. Some stalks in a hill are fairly well ripened, while another stalk in the same hill is still green and the ear immature. This uneventees in ripening can not be accounted for. Upon close inspection of fields one will find an unusually large number of soft and very snappy ears. These should not be thrown into the crib with sound corn, for they are sure to make trouble. Many grain buyers who have studied this condition claim that the only feasable and safe way for them to handle the new corn that will come onto the market in November is to put in dryers and drive out the excess moisture. Farmers who intend to crib their corn will do well to profit by the advice of grain dealers and see that their cribs are well ventilated, and that large quantities of corn are not piled together. The crop, this season on sod land is very sappy, and this is the kind that will prove very hard to dry out. Feed the soft ears and open up the cribs so that the wind and sun will get a good sweep at the cribbed corn.

Sheldon Jackson, an official employed by the United States hureau of education to work in the wilds of Alaska, carried Christmas to the Eskimo chlirden there in 1894. He gave a deeply interesting account of how he did it da a report to the hureau.
"For several days immediately preceding Christmas," he said, "I took

I made up a lot of little bags out of empty flour sacks, and into cach one put eight cubes of white sugar, about a dozen pieces of dried apples and a dozen raisins—not a wer appropriate assortment for a Christmas present for a white child, but it was present for a white child, but it was the hest we had, and I found out afterward that the selection was very much appreciated by the little Eskimo.

"The hour I spent in this service was one of supreme delight to me, especially so as the little handful of food I distributed made the hright eyes for a hundred people glisten with happisess and supplied as many stomachs with a feast they enjoyed before they again closed their eyes in sleep.

"It will take too much space to record all the times I gathered as I peered through their little skin windows and saw them dancing around in great glee, old and young, and expressing their thankfulness for the many good things received, the like of which they had never before eaten."

Where Santa Claus Caused Treor.

Where Santa Claus Caused Terror.
Mrs. Bertha Stover, the wife of a missionary stationed at Bailundu, Africa, tells an amusing story of how Santa Claus terrified the black children at her mission station, where he first appeared to them a year or two ago.

Irst appeared to them a year or two ago.

They had celebrated Christmas at Ballundu before, but they never had Santa Claus, so Mr. Stover dressed himself up a choose the benevolent saint. "He had been padded and powdered and packed minself up and himself up and him said was the signal and the door flew open and Mrs. Stover. "Presently we gave the signal and the door flew open and is walked Santa Claus. But dear me, what consternation!

"He was greeted with shrieks and groans and cries of:
"Let me out!"
"It is the evil one!
"It is the day of judgment!"
"The small fry, catching the infection of terror from the elder black people, field to the bedroons, fell down upon their faces, crept under chairs and tables—anywhere to hide themselves.
"Poor Santa Claus never had such selves. "Poor Santa Claus never had such a greeting before. As soon as he realized the panic he had caused, be realized the panic he had caused, be tore off his tall hat and white cotton beard, and from the hags on his back hegan to throw gifts right and left, and to tell who he was. "Reassured once more, they were soon all laughing and chatting, nunching the great 'red breads' (doughnuts), tasting their fruits or nibbling at the sweets in the familiar little bags.

at the sweets in the familiar little bags.

"One man wondered which end up he was to hold the fork static Claus had given him. Another immediately tried on his new shirt. The girls arranged their brightness, while others tried to find some place about their scarty clothing where they could stow away the bunch of hread, paper of needles and cake of soap given to them.

SERMONETTE.

THE STORY.

JOAB, the enutain of the armies of Israel, had openly espoused the cause of Adonijah, and daily now the heir-sparent to the throne was to be seen riding through the streets of Jerusalem in regal siyle, and many were the admiring and approving glances which followed the gorgeous procession of charlots and horsea and outrunners. It had been a long time since King David had been seen in public, and when it had been seen in public, and seen in the court physicians to rouse him out of the sentistic street of the court physicians to rouse him out of the sentistic street when the had fallen, the people realized that the days of their beloved king were numbered. But sorrowful though their hearts were and reluctant to part with the great King David, they knew that soon a new ruler would take his place on the throne. No one seemed to know whether the king had chosen the one who should rule in his place, or not, and so when Adonijah, he oldest living son of David, had prepared him charlots and horses and runners to go before him, it was generally accepted that he was to aucceed to the throne. And this feeling was strengthened by the action of Joab, and frequently the griztled old warrior was to be seen riding with Adonijah in the latter's charlot.

However, in consultation with Joah, he had sone ahead with his plans, and had arranged for a great gathering of his followers, at which it was expected that formal recognition of his claims to the throne would be made, but as the time approached for the banquer the grew mover and more

"What meaneth this?" ejaculated Adonijān with an oath "Makes.....Zhia thar eome league with Solomon?"

If was half tempted to turn back. Simpleton and hatred and anger filled his heart. Not nutil that moment had the thought of Solomon as a possible stumbling block in the way of his progress entered his mind. He did remember on that years before when the Egypt to be trained in all the learning of the Egyptic he trained in all the learning of the Egyptic he trained in all the learning of the Egyptic he trained in all the learning of the Egyptic has be had heard an infination that David had said that he (Solomon) should rule after him, but the years had come and gone-since them, and there had been no indication from the king that such was his purpose. Solomon had now been back nearly we years and there had been no marked favors shown him, and certain it was that as the enfeebling conditions of old age had crept in upon David, and more and more had loosened his grasp upon the affairs of the kingdom, there had been no word spoken or may be the solome had nown and more and more had loosened his grasp upon the affairs of the kingdom, there had been no word spoken or mupon the prince and Abiathar that morning. "No," he exclaimed, through his cienched teeth after he had bidden the driver to continue on his way to the house of Abiathar; will not turnback. I will see what Abiathar hath to say concerning this matter."

Fortunetly his anger had somewhat cooled when Abiathar reached home, and the accusation which was framing itself upon his lips was not spoken, but instead, he said, with some degree of calmess:

"Thou didn't not come to me so I have come to thee"

"Yea, and thou hast done well," responded Abiathar.

"That depends on whether thou speakest well or ill off my cause. Thou cannst not remain silent much longer, for but this morning? I heard that the king was stalling rapidly." "It is true," sadly rejoined the high priest." I have but just come from the palace. The old

"He did," was the terse response.

"And made claims for the king-dom?"
"Nay, nor was the king able to talk concerning the promise which it is claimed he gave years ago that Solomon should come to his throne."

"Then what of my cause? Am I not the heir to the throne?"

"Thou art."

"Impulsively Adonish stepped to the side of the high priest, and as he embraced him, he exclaimed:
"And thou will attend the feast at Eurogel?"

"Long live King Adonish!" was the response.

Each of the above letters is the first letter of a word. Fourteen words which be with the letters as arranged above will be on the Christmas presents which we will distribute to our customers—one to each Family.

You will notice there are two lines which read from left to right. The two lines rhyme, and form a good rule for you to follow during the year 1908. That's all we can say now. See if you can compose the correct list of words, and bring it to our Store as soon as you can.

Be sure the words are arranged in the same order as the letters appear, and that your 77 Rewards That Will be Given. In case there are not 77 correct lists submitted, those nearest correct will be taken in the order received. IT WHLL COST YOU NOTHING to try as you need not even make a purchase for as much as a single cent to entitle you to submit list—and you may be one of the 77.

Don't think that everyone else will be ahead of you. Make up your list and bring it to our Store or send it by one of your neighbors.

Will Be Received up to 11 a. m., Saturday, December 21, and rewards will be given out the day before Christmas.

The Correct List is known only to one person, and is in a sealed envelop which is in the possession of Mr. J. D. Ward the Jeweler, who will keep it sealed until the Committee appointed to examine the lists calls for it. It will then be opened in his presence and afterwards displayed in our Show Window.

ever homely wite.

When a man deserts from the United States army the stigms sticks. And so it should. A soldier who some time ago took "French leave" now wants to reenlist in the army and redeem himself. But he is down on the official records as a deserter, and while that inscription stands he cannot be accepted as a recruit. He has applied to the war department to have the record expunged, by the request has been denied, it being the irrevocable decision of the department to make no change in the records when they are in accord with the proved facts. So the man will go through life branded as a deserter and debarred from the military service of his country, even though he desires to make good for past misconduct. He should have thought of all that, says the Troy Times, before he ran away.

Times, before he ran away.

Of all the enterprising things done in Chicago none surpasses the recent act of a widower with four young children to look after. He needed a wife and they needed a mother, so the man woosed the unmarried women of his neighborhood, but found none willing to assume so many domestic cares at once. Therefore he placed a placard in his window one day, bearing the inscription, "A widower, living within, wants a wife. Ladles, if you want a husband, inquire within at once," and remained at home to meet his callers. The lateresting part of the story is that the callers came, and the man is likely to find what his children need, if indeed he has not already found a new wife.

Here is a variant on the did-not-know-it-was-loaded item, but having the same old tragic ending. This time it was a woman in Richmond, Va., who playfully pointed a pistol and asked her sister for another help of saind at the table at which both were seated/Then the supposed-to-be harmless weapon was discharged and the migsfle it contained inflicted what is likely to be fatal injury on the sister. The one safe way to handle any pistol is not to point it at a person. The young Richmond woman who caused the trouble will have the rest of her young Richmond woman who caused the trouble will have the rest of her life to reflect upon that truth.

When an intelligent man cannot answor an honest question in a court of law without "incriminating" himself, his confession to that effect may keep his contession to that elect may keep him out of jail for contempt, but it ought not to keep him out longer than is necessary to properly convict him of the criminal conduct he pleads in the own behalf.

and that for the teat the same and that for the teat that the same and to America during the year ended June 30, 1907, was vastig greater than in any previous year in the history of the United States. This fact, with all it interesting and important details, is placed in a strong light in the annual report of Frank P. Sargent, commissioner general of immigration and naturalization, which was made public. Of this great food of immigration and naturalization, which was made public, of this great food of immigrants Commissioner Sargent says:

"An army of 1,285,349 souls that have come, drawn-lither by the free institutions and the mavelous prosperity of our country—the chance here afforded—every—houset tollier, to gain a livelihood by the sweat of his brow or the exercise of his intelligence—supassing in numbers the reord of all preceding years."

The report contains in tabulated form every phase of information bearing upon the subject of immigration, and submitting this data Mr. Sargent says:

"The immigration for the year 190; exceeded that for 1906 by 184,614 and that for the year 195 by 258,550, or an increase over the year of 1905 of more than 25 per cent.

"During, the fiscal year 1906, 12,432 allens were rejected at our ports; during the past year 13,064, an invessed of 652. Honce the total numbers of 652.

"During the fiscal year 1996, 12,432 allens were rejected at our ports; during the past year 13,064, an increase of 622. Hence the total number of those who have sought admission in 1997, viz., 12,98,413, exceeds the number who applied in 1996, viz., by 155,246.

by 185,246."

Commissioner Sargent says it is of particular significance that many immigrants landed at ports in the south during the past year, and he refers especially to a party of 473 Belgians—excellent types of immigrants—received at Charleston, N. C., having been induced to go there by the state authorities.

been induced to go there by the state authorities.

The increase of immigration to the south, the commissioner says, is discreelly connected with the growing desire of the southern states to obtain a number of the better class of immigrants, it being considered by practically all of the leading men of that section—that the future development and welfars of the south depend upon. Its ability to receive and absorb a reliable laboring and farming element. Strikins increases are also shown at New Orleans, Gaiveston and Honolulu.

WRS. LONGWORTH'S CONDITION

resident's Daughter Has Vermifor Appendix Removed and Is on Way to Recovery.

Washington. — Mrs. Alice Long-worth, wife of Representative Nichlas Longworth, and daughter of President Roosevelt, was operated upon for appendicitis Thursday. The peration, which was performed at the White House by Dr. Finney of Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, assisted by Dr. Sophie Nordhoff-Jung and Surgeon General Rixey of the nary, was declared by Dr. Rixey to have been successful in every particular and to have left the patient in excellent condition.
The following bulletin was issued at the White House at nine o'clock Thursiany night:

"Mrs. Longworth has had a comparatively comfortable day. Her gen-oral condition is satisfactory, eral condition is satisfactory. No more bulletins will be issued during the night."

At the conclusion of the operation Mrs. Longworth emerged from the influence of the anesthetic in a very short time and atter exchanging a few words with Mrs. Cowles, her aunt, and with her husband, she fell asleep naturally and enjoyed a nap lasting two hours. Her condition was such that President Roosevelt felt little apprehension and in fact did not heistate to engage in his afternoon tennis game with Ambassador Jusserand, 'Git-ford Pinchot and Assistant Attorney General Cooley.

The preparations had been making for the operation for nearly a month, it being known during that time that Mrs. Longworth was suffering from incipient infammation of the vermiform appendix. About a week ago preparations were begun for the operation which it was deemed expedient to undertake before she had suffered a loss of strength that would be sure to ensue from a severe attack of appendicitis.

Washington.—The following bulletin was issued at the White House Friday night at 9:30 o'clock: "Mrs. Longworth had a very good day, She is progressing rapidly and her condition is entirely satisfactory."

IS NOT A CANDIDATE

PRESIDENT PUTS AN END TO THE THIRD TERM TALK.

ALL DOUBT DISPELLED

Formal Statement Issued by Roosevelt Repeating That Made the Night of Election In 1904.

Washington. — President Roosevelt will not be a candidate for a third term. All doubt on this point was dispelled Wednesday night by the authoritative statement from the White House that Mr. Roosevelt still adheres to the declaration of renunciation made on the night of the election three years ago.

In the statement issued, President, "coosevelt says he has not canaged and shall not change the decision communicated to the American people in 1904.

1994. It appears that President Rossevelt has been awaiting the call for the Republican national convention to art ford the preper opportunity for making his position clear and unnistable, able, thus leaving the field clear for Farrbanks, Taft, Cannon, Knox, Foraker and other declared or receptive candidates for the Republican nomination. The president's statement follows:

tion. The president's statement follows:

"In view of the issuance of the call of the Republican nntional committee for the convention, the president makes the following statement:
"On the night after election I made the following announcement: I am deeply sensible of the honor done me by the American people in thus expressing their confidence in what I have done and have tried to do. I appreciate to the full the solemn responsibility this confidence imposes upon me, and I shall do all that In my power lies not to forfeit it. On the fourth of March next I shall have served three and a half years, and this three and a half years, and this three there. The wise custom which limits the president to two terms regards the rubstance, and not the form, and under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination."

"I have not changed and shall not change the decision thus announced." The announcement that the president would not accept the Republican nomination, if tendered, came at too late an hour to become generally known in political circles, but among those who learned of it, Democrats and Republicans alike, the feeling was general that it left no element of doubt in the presidential situation, so far as relates to the third term talk, and that it definitely eliminates Mr. Roosevelt from the contest now being waged. Some Democrats, however, express a belief-that a Roosevelt stampede in the Republican convention would shake his resolution and that he would prove no exception to the historic precedent that no American citizen ever refused a presidential nomination.

Administration Republicans declare that the announcement gives a great impetus to the Taft boom, while the Democrats, many of the leaders of which party are here attending the meeting of their rational committee, are shouting that it means "Bryan in a walk."

ORCHARD TELLS OF MURDER

Pictures Pettibone As His Paymaster for All His Crimes,

Bolse, Idaho. — Showing signs of deep emotion, Harry Orchard, In the Petitione trial "Thursday afternoon, told of the assassination of ex. Gov. Steunonberg. In minute detail he testified in regard to the deliberate preparations for the crime; of his unsuccessful attempt to end the life of the governor, and finally of placing the boimb on the night of December 30, 1905.

Before telling of the Steunenberg murder Orchard detailed his alleged attempts on the lives of Fred Bradley at San Franciaco: Justice Gubbert, Justice Goddard and Gov. Peabody at Denver, and of plans which he said were made to still Sherman Bell, Frank Hearne, David Moffatt and John Nevlille. Throughout his story he pictured Pettibone as his paymaster, and in some of his attempted crimes he implicated the defendant as an active participant. In every detail his narrative was the same as given in the Haywood trial.

Gov. Willson Calls For Meeting of Tobacco Growers and Buyers.

Frankfort, Ky.—Following an all-day conference with leaders of tobacco growers, citizens of Hopkinsville just from the secene of warehouse burning outrages, the state fire marshal, insurance commissioner and jurists of prominence, Gov. Willson gave out a public statement of a bold plan which has undertaken and announces, which he believes will result in the unifurnate solution of the thousarcu problem just now assuming such proportions in Kentucky.

The new governor's plan is similar to that employed with such success by President Roosevelt in the great and thractic coal strike of Popusylvasia several years ago.

Gov. Willson proposes that a meeting of the leading tobacco growers and leading, togace buyers be held in his office at the Capilol December 29 and 21, at which a full and fair discussion he had of the issues involved in the tremendous fisht now being waged be tween the growers and buyers.

Scripture Authority:-1 Kings 1:

Adonijah's cause was strong. David was old and greatly enfected. Certainly he did not court another rebellion. How was it, then, that he could act with such precision, such positiveness, such boldness? It was faith. Nothing in the world could have pulled David together and revived his waning faculties but the sense of the obligation which he owed God and the consciousness that God's will was to be wrought out in the face of the plottings of man. What a grand thing it is to see an old man whose strength and inspiration is the Lord. What have we after all to lean on but God? As earth is elipping

But Nathan was of in the direction of the piace without hearing the last sentence. He knew better than any one eise the delight which the young man took in visiting the place and sitting in medication there. Ever since his return from Egypt he had often sought the quist and seclusion of the Femple. In Egypt the great temples were the centers of learning, and why should not the Temple of the God of Israel be the place where one should learn wisdom and see and understand with a clear mind? Reasoning thus the desirest os either had grown upon him, and it was therefore towards the Tabernacie that Nathan harried.
"My son," he exclaimed, when he had found him: "Knowest thow not that the heart of all the people is turning to thee, and that the king has given commandment that thou shalt be anointed king at Gilno this day and that thou shalt sit with him apon his throne?"

"Strange! And do they still have "Dewberry" on the gate as they did when they lived in the little house in the lane?"

"Oh, no. They call themselves Du-Barry now. Dewberry sounds too plain."

His Kind of Traps

"Why don't you have some ambition, old man?" said the woman in the red sunbonnet, who had been reading the society news.

"What kind of ambition, old wom an?" yawned Uncle Hank, as he whit tled a trigger for his snare.

"Why, you might try to get rich and own a stylish trap like the swell city folks do."
"Don't keer about

"Don't keer about any stylish traps, Lucy. Rabbit and possum traps are good enough for me."

Johnnie Cloud, secretary of the Hebrou Creamery Association, called at this office, Monday afternoon. The gentleman who is operating the creamery says it is a record breaker so far as his experience goes, in the per cent of butter fat obtained from the milk. The first three days of receipts of milk amounted to 4,438 pounds of milk, yielded 238,64 pounds of butter, the per cent being 5.37.

Christmas is here again, and the hearts of the young and the old are made merry by the joys and festivities that throng the holidays. To the child it means toys, sweetmeats and the pleasures of vacation. To the older ones it brings that renewal of youth that comes from coatact with the buoyancy of youth. The children, not yet acquainted with the joys of giving, are overflowing with happiness because of what they have received while their parents, measuring life by a higher standard, find a deep satisfaction in the joy that they impart.

The horse is very susceptible to cold; and the horses that are stabled when not being worked or exercised feel the changes of weather quite as readily as do those enjoying a more free life. All stables should be fairly lofty, because horses need plenty of fresh air, and this can only be properly given during intense cold when ventlation can be given above the heads of the animals, so far as elevation is concerned, the position of the ventilators mattering little so long as they are of a good height and placed with judgment. The stable should feel cosey upon going in, but not stuffy, otherwise the horses will feel chilly upon coming out.

When the horses are out at work they are of a given and they are of the stable with the chorses are out at work they are the stable work they are at the stable work they are the stable work they are at they are at the stable work they are at they are at they are a stable work they are at the stable work they are at they are at they are at they are at the stable work they are at they are at they are at they are at the at they are at the at they are at t in, but not stuffy, otherwise the horses will feel chilly upon coming out.

When the horses are out at work they need little care, so long as they are actually employed, but if being rested, or doing duty that involves periods of inaction, it then becomes necessary to see that there is no chance given for a chill to be caught. If to stand for several minutes, as well as a loincloth, or sheet, should be thrown across the back and removed when actual work recommences, and the same plan should be followed until the cold breaks. Cows do not feel the cold so much as do horses, but, for all that, they do feel it. Perhaps one of the most noticeable features as regards cows during cold is the increased amount of food that the animals will consume. Cows should be housed comfortably during cold, and the cow house should be well provided with fresh air, admitted without draught, and regulated by the quantity required to keep the interior temperature of the cowhouse warm enough to feel confortable to the animals, for if too cold the coat will readily show it, even should the animals care to drink, first taking the chill off. Dowing such cord weather the cows should never be allowed to stand about in the open, and the younger stock should either be housed entirely or given the run of a sheltered shed.—Family Herald.

GET RICH QUICK.

Schemes of this class have again come to grief along with the gullible investors, causing serious loss to innocent business concerns, as is always the case of panics in Wall St.

While this last lesson is yet fresh in mind, it is an opportune moment to consider causes and means to avoid like trouble in the future.

Direct your attention to that greatest of all Newspapers the Cincinnati Enquirer. From its columns one can readily detect the trend of currency, its lodging places, by whom handled, uses made of it, and final results.

JUDGE J. W. CAMMACK.

a picture of Judge Cammack, whose first term of the Boone Circuit C urt, expired last Saturday. It does not flatter the Judge in the least, and is presented by way of a partial intro-duction of the new Judge of the Circuit Court to the many Boone County people who were not in attendance upon the court last week.

Judge Cammack is the youngest man ever elected to the bench in this Judicial District, and his two weeks' term of court just held here satisfied the people who saw him preside, that he will make good, and a long and honorable judicial carreer is already predicted for him should he be spared.

Judge Cammack is polite and courteous to all and disposes of business without fear or favor, display or bluster, and keeps the wheels of justice on the move at all seasonable hours. He has impressed the people here as being a man of the people notwithstand-ing his retiring disposition, which is of a character that will make his court command the respect of the public.

As a member of the State Senate from this district composed of Boone, Gallatin and Owen counties, he took an active part in all the important legislation that came before that body, and was regarded some of its leaders. He is a hard worker at anything in which he engages.

Oirquit-Court.

A report reached the county of flois about eight o'clock less Wedneeds night, that Indications were that a mob would visit the jail that night for the purpose of 'tynching. John Meeks, who killed Albert Clutterbuck. No time was lost in getting Meeks ont of jail and taking h m about 3 miles to a farm house in the country, where he was guarded until the next morning by Deputy Sherilla Cropper and Hume, when they returned him to jail. These facts were made known to Judge Cammack, who, upon the convening of the circuit court Thursday morning entered an order transferring the prisoner to the Covington jail for safe keeping, and then drew from the jury wheel a special grand jury which he directed summoned for Friday morning for the purpose of investigating the killing of Clutterbuck. The special grand jury when organized was composed of the following persons:

and each allowed for one day's service.

Judge Cammack's action in calling the special grand jury met with the approval of everybody.

After the special grand jury was drawn, last Thursday, only six names remained in the wheel, and the jury commissioners, Robert A. Brady, T. G. Willis 5.26 Geo. Blyth were summoned to replenish the names in the wheel for the August term of the court.

The trial of the damage suit of J. L. Carpenter against E. I. Glack en consumed about two days and a half. A very large number of witnesses was examined by each side. The jury was out about an hour when it returned a verdict for defendant Glacken.

The case of Lewis Terrill against S. W. Tolin for $10,500 for danages tor injuries resulting from a kick by his mule while he was crossing the river on defendants ferry at haw renceburg. It was claimed that one of the horses on the power bit Terrill's mule, causing it to kick. The case was closely contested at every point, and resulted in a verdict of fendant and Dickerson for plaintiff each made a strong argument, but Dickerson's is said to have been the strongest ever heard in the present court house.

The jurors were finally discharged by the court upon the returning of the verdict in the Terrill—Tolin case, and Judge Cammack was soon on his way home.

MOVED JUST IN TINE.

There is no doubt but what Judge Lynch had organized his court, last Wednesday night, for the trial of John Meeks, and only the prompt action on the part of the officers interrupted the holding of the court. It is said that the Judge went so far as to place a squad of men on each of the two roads, hoping to intercept the officers if they started to Covington with Meeks that night.

Misses Jonette and Pattie Revill, and Shirley Tolin, who are attending school at Corpetown, and Miss Laura Porter, who is attending school at Millersburg, arrived home the latter part of last week to spend the Christmas holiday vacation.

When Friendship Becomes Affection. It is difficult, sometimes, for a young woman to understand when the male friend who is regularly calling upon hep has become so interested in her that his friendship has warmed into affection. On the other hand, a mau is frequently a little puzzled to know far he can pay attentions of a purely friendly character to a girl without leading the recipient to suppose he means more than is actually wish to amuse himself without going too far. He merely desires to express his feelings of friendliness and courtesy without the danger of misconception on her part. There are many little civilities of every-day life to be exicanged between mat, and woman upon which only ignorance could put at warm on the construction than was meant, says the New York Weekly. He can ride with her, row with her, state with her. He can do a zeore of little things of this sort. But there are certain things he cannot do. He cannot offer her presents of any great value; offer his escort to places, whether she is accompanied or unaccompanied by a chaperon. He cannot online he out from other girls, or resent other men paying her exactly the same attentions as himself. These are the marks of a warmer feeling.

An Experiment That Failed.

An enterprising citizen of White Plains, N. Being well supplied with money he' therefore established a dairy, which he made the cleanest and most sanitary in the world. He got together the flaver possible bend of cows, with their health duly certified, and had them milked in concrete barns by white-frocked, white-aproned, highly paid milkers. Them, he charged 15 cents a quart for the milk, but did not find as many customers as be expected, though be advertised extensively. The venture did not pay, and now he is giving if up, though it cost him, nearly a million dollars. If people want pure milk henceforth they may get it without his assistance. He has found what many have found before him, that few persons will go above the market price for commodities, even to get the story.

Romance Jo-Day.

To our forefathers each new manifestation was a matter of ocular excitement. The fingers of the cotton gis took the place of human fingers. At tift coming of eller an amputation was transformed from a scene of torture to a placid process in mechanics. Crowis gathered to see Fulton's devilboat churn's tis way-slewly up the Hudson, or to watch the first tocomotive pullings—and clanking through the meadows. Even with the development of electricity wires stretched tait against the sky; the strand of cable might be seen as it began its plunge beneath the Atlantic. Yet it has remained for the matter-of-fact utilization of wirefess telegraphy to bring us, in science, the height of romance, says Collier's Weekly. Today a merchant wishes to telegraph to his buyer in London; forthwith his half-dozen words are shot to the tip of a pole be-namely, the closing of the salcons on Sunday.

Judge Wallace in his statement says:

"It is a mistake to suppose that the Sabbath is purely a religious institution and that its enforced observance is for the benefit of the church. The Sabbath was ordained before man had fallen or there was a church or the need for a Redeemer. By divine example the Almighty ordained it by resting from the work of creation on the seventh day and the impressed for ever upon its sacred character by hallowing it. The Sabbath would be with us had sin avere entered the world."

"Hence, when we think logically and historically, if is easy to perceive how it is that a desire for a day of rest is a latent intuition with the laboring man. The tryanny of 6,000 years of human avarice has not cradicated it. Justice Field, so long a member of our United States supreme court, was right when as one of the supremutades of California he declared that Sunday laws are enacted primarily for the protection of labor. We call for the protection of labor. We call for the protection of labor. ### RESCUE WORK IS HALTED

CONDITIONS IN DARR MINE ARE DANGEROUS TO EXPLORERS.

Father of Victim Commits Suicide a Widowed Woman Tries to End
Her Life.

Jacobs Creek, Pa—From the Darr mine of the Pittsburg Coal company, where a terrific explosion Thursday imprisoned and almost beyond doubt killed every one of the 200 or more men who had entered the mine for the day, only six bodies had been brought to the surface up to ten o'clock Friday night.

—Others have been located and lie in the entry awaiting a propitious time the entry awaiting a propitious time for the removal to the temporary morgue. Most of them, however, are still henumed in by heavy falls of state and other roof formation, a mile and a baif and more beyond the point to which the resours have—penetrated up to this time.

Rescue work has been haited. A vast amount of bratteing must be done before it can proceed. The rescuing partles, 7,500 feet from the main entrance, have found conditions such that to avert an additional disaster precautionary work must be done. The poisonous gases must be forced from the sections beyond and additional air and overtifiation must be provided for that section. To neglect these precautions and proceed with the explorations is to risk the life of every man of the rescuing force. To provide these sateguards will require bours of time, and it is not believed that the great mass of bodies will be reached before late Saturday afternoon.

Conditions round about the mines and in this town are greatly improved. The men who began a holiday celebration by drinking and feasting have sobered up and ceased their carousing and disorder.

Conrad Schuth, 48 years old, crazed by the death in the mine of his son and other relatives, ended his own life Friday by drowning in the river near the mine. He was a widower and leaves four small children.

Mrs. Carrino Delano-was restrained from committing suicide with great difficulty. She lost her husband and two sons in the disaster, and in quest of the bodies was crossing the river in the "sky ferry," a basket car suspended from a cable when she was esized with the idea of leaping into the stream. Gold.— Nev.—News of the president's order removing the federal troops from Goldfield on December 30 has caused a sensation among the mine owners and the residents of the city generally. The news was received at noon Friday and during the afternoon conferences were held between Capt. Cox, the representative of Gov. Sparks in Goldfield, and Col. Raynards, commanding the troops here, and between the mine owners and members of President Roosevelt's commission.

President McKinnon and other officials of the miners' union said that the possibility of disorder or violence, of any sort will be no greater after the removal of the troops than now, and that they will use every endeavor to maintain peace and quiet.

De Armond bluntly questioned the truth of the statement, and after the failure of an effort on bis part to transfer the scene of conversers, Mr. Williams struck Mr. De Armond a blow in the face with closed fist.

The exciting incident will not be set down in the official records of the Sixtieth congress, for the bouse had been some minutes adjourned when the first blow was struck.

been some minutes adjourned when the first blow was struck.

Some representative cried out. Thook, look at the fight. Everybody looked; but so startled were they by what they saw that no one seemed for the moment to think of rushing forward and stopping it. Meantime Mr. Williams and Mr. De Armond, wedged between two rows of desks, were still, exchanging blows. Blood was flowing down the face of the leader of the minority, while Mr. De Armond was endeavoring to grasp his opponent by the throat, at the same time vigorously returning blow for blow.

Then, everybody awoke to the unseemilness of the scene and crowded in and made an end of it.

It may not be generally known that Fanny Chosby, now spokes of oally as a hynn writer, used, to drop into week-day verse, supplying words for songs more popular in their day than are any of the new things heard by music lovels of these-later times, pays the New York Post.

The matron who is now being "courted again in her girls" will, if she has a good memory, recall at dolerul song that her Charlie and his rivals used to sake for whea she wore ringlets and broad-brimmed gypty hats: "In the Hazel bell Mry-Neillee Sleeping," the words of which were written by Fannte Cresby, under a pen name. This same matron had not been married long enough to give up her music when "Rosalle, the Prairie Flower" (words by the same author) had all sentimental young people weeping because 'she' was 'gone."

It was the fashion in those days for song heroluse to die young, and his Crosby want any more murderoisily inclined than other song writers. At that time "Sweet Alice," under her slab of granite so gray, was still papalar, and listeners were informed that "Gentle Annie" wouldn't come any more because she was "gone too," though "Fair Euitalie" appeared sometimes as a spirit robed in white.

We had not-long-given-up weeping at "Little Blossoms" tom when "Sweet Belle Mahane" were informed that to her to word of the sancer's began to clear the way for "Neille Gray's faithful affianced to join her up above, "Kate Darling" had prohably a longer season of belieship than any other dead girl, but she was closely followed by Miss Crosby's "Rosalie."

The little beauty, "Belle Brandon," was another young person of, the "Prairie Flower" genus, but in-spite of her early grave she was never so popular as were some of her rivals.

To be sure, the old songs were some what niminy-plining and they were doleful to a degree, but, nevertheless they were, what the young people cried for in those days and they were double under the same and they were doleful to a degree, but, nevertheles from those days and they were doleful to a degree, but, never t thing to the young mains gir mentioned in a book on "The Indian Alps."

"Mem-salib," asked she, "why do you wear those sad colors? I don't like them."

"I am in mourning, Lattoo, it is the custom of English ladles."

"But black is the color of night, mem-salib, and yet you believe that when you die you go to heaven at once. Then why not be glad for your friends who die, and wear colors such as we see in birds and flowers, and falling water when the sun shaes? God doesn't make, your colors, abuth, children when the sun shaes?

Heat Tests of Clothing. .

An interesting experiment, made in June by a physician, proved conclusively—that for the sake of coolness only white should be worn in hot weather.

The physician spread out in an interest sumpline a large piece of white

The physician spread out in an in-tense sunshine a large piece-of white cloth, another of dark yellow, another of light green, another-of-dark green, another of bine and another of black. Then, with the help of six thermom-eters, he made the following table of the various heats which each color re-ceived from the sunlight: White, 104 degreess; dark yellow, 140 degrees; light green, 155 degrees; dark green, 188 degrees, blue, 198 degrees; black, 208 degrees. Thus the physician proved that in 208 degrees.

Thus the physician proved that in July or August the man in white is a little less than twice as cool as the man in blue and a little more than twice as cool as the man in black.

Carpet of Ivory.

The carpet, at a distance, seemed of cream-colored slik, but as the indian merchant unrolled it, it rattied slightly, for it was a carpet of Ivory.

"An ivory carpet," said the sallow and thin dealer. "It does not belong to me, but to a certain raish. He has commissioned me to sell it to one oil your millionaires, whose wealth and liberality are weith enougher to the carpet, though very heavy, was quite flexible. It glistened like sain it was eight feet long and six feet wide.

th was eight feet long and six teet wide.

"Over 6,000 peunds of tusks were required for this carpet," said the Indian "Only the finest parts could be tusen. The strips were shaven singularly thin. See how flexible they are.

"But three such carpets exist, and they all beiong to India. The largest and best is in the treasury of the Maharajah of Boroda."

BY NEW LAW

It is Proposed to Prevent Tax Dodging

Louisville, Ky—Steps were taken to be peditioned from the next legislature limiting the tax exemption of the city of committee of those interested that out of a total valuation of 3169,000,000 in the city that the city there was, a tax exemption of $7,724,535. This is on properties, belonging to any institution in any way connected with relicious work, and these are supposed to be more competitive and non-productive of revenue. The committee discovered, however, that the Kenron building here, owned by the M. E. church of Barboursville-hough a competitor among office buildings, is, not taxed, and that a local business college, recently Incorporated, with a board of trustees, thus cancing tax, though it charges tuition and gains revenue from it.

The record law whereby the real value of property may be disquised 57 valuing it at 'st-and valuable consideration," will be attacked in the new bill as another form of tax-dodging.

The Mustache.

There is more than humor in the rise and fall of the mustache, although the country was amused several years ago by a humorous lecturer, who discoursed on the subject. It is contrary to the British army regulations for an officer to shave his upper lip. From time to time the war department has issued general orders expressing its disapproval of the growing disregard of the regulations, and now it is reported in London that King Edward is contemplating some acdisapproval of the growing disregard of the regulations, and now it is reported in London that King. Edward is contemplating some action which will compel the officers to return to the old custom. The mustache has long been regarded as a military basel, Only one regiment in the Austse-Hungarian cavalry may go smooth-faced, and this is because during the Seven Years' war recruits were so scaree that this regiment once had to go into battle when there were nothing but beatless by the dealers of the mustache in military England is mustache in military England is mustache in military England is and the liking of English army of ficers for American girls, combination which produces new fashions

TALK ABOUT TAXES

the scener is the power to pay taxes. The fax apportioned in this manner will shift from the poorer and remote rural counties the burden they now bear, and impose it on the more thickly settled and prosperous counties. This change would do away with the universal temptation to undervalue property in order to shift the state tax to other communities. A study of the experience of other states shows that one of the greatest evils has been this incentive to undervalue. It produces inequality and dissatisfaction, if not downright fraud."

The Ohio State Grange.

In Ohlo they are proposing an amendment to the constitution that will permit of a classification of the sources of revenue, such as is now in effect in Pennsylvania. The difficulty with the Ohio constitution is exactly similar to that in Kentucky. They are proposing there are mendment to the constitution which will make it read this way: "Taxes shall be levied at a uniform rate upon all property of the same class." The Ohio constitution on requires that taxes shall be uniform upon all classes of property, the provision being similar to that of the constitution said:

"To pull up every stake in our constitution scene heroic treatment, and if done would throw upon the people added responsibility in the selection of their perpresentatives. It classification is to be the plan adopted, it should be left to a commission of at least five members appointed by the appointment of a member of well-known integrity and great legal ability.

"The farmers are not committed to the idea of classification, but we wish to join in the study of tax revision. The Ohio State Grange, assembled in annual session, December 11 to 13, 1905, by a unanimous vote expressed the desire of an organized body of tax-payers, fifty thousand strong, to cooperate with all other interests in devising a tax system that shall be just and fair to every legitimate interest in the stude."
